POST-DISPATCH TO HAVE FRIEDMANN CURE INVESTIGATED

Three Berlin Specialists, Famous Throughout World, Undertake Commission to Look Into Cases Treated With Turtle Serum and Report in Four Weeks.

THEY ARE EXPERTS ON TUBERCULOSIS

Their Findings Will Be Given to the World Only Through New York World and Post-Dispatch and as Soon as Possible.

RECOGNIZING that no positive knowledge of the value of the so-called Friedmann cure for tuberculosis could possibly be obtained in this country until the passage of several months, the New York World and Post-Dispatch some weeks ago instructed their correspondent in Berlin to engage the services of three of the leading medical men in Germany—men whose names would be a guarantee of their fitness to act on the claims of Dr. Friedmann.

The Post-Dispatch announces here the formation of this commission and its purpose. Three men of international repute comprise it. Their prime object is a complete tracing and study of all the cases treated in Germany by Dr. Friedmann before he came to America. Sufficient time has elapsed in Germany to warrant conclusions as to the value of the Friedmann treatment, and the report of the World's commission will be conclusive and convincing. The Board of Health of New York City passed a resolution yesterday, which prohibits the injection of live bacilli into humans until the Board shall, after a full investigation, grant permission in writing for the use of the vaccine containing the bacilli.

Three of Germany's Most Noted Specialists Undertake the Work

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, May 30.—Three of Germany's most eminent specialists in medicine and surgery will investigate for the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch the cases treated in Germany by Dr. Friederich Franz Friedmann. They undertook their commission today and promise a complete report in about four weeks. It will be the first impartial and authoritative verdict as to the success or failure of Friedmann's tuberculosis treatment in his own country.

The three men whose services were sought and obtained to investigate the results of the Friedmann "cure" in Germany have world-wide reputations in the field of medicine. Their judgment is placed in this way at the disposal of the entire world, which will await anxiously their verdict. The members of the committee are:

PROF. FRIEDERICK KRAUS, director of the great Berlin charity clinic.

PROF. GEORG JOACHIMSTAHL, director of the Berlin Polyclinic for Orthopoedic Surgery, including bone tuberculosis.

DR. ALFRED WOLFF-EISNER, tuberculosis expert and director of bacteriology of the Friederichshafen Hospital of Berlin.

The commission will make its report to the World and Post-Dispatch at the earliest date consistent with thoroughness in investigating the effects of Friedmann's treatment. The World and Post-Dispatch in turn will make the report public as quickly as the commission authorizes it.

Statement by Commission.

The commission issued today the following statement:

"We, the undersigned, have accepted the invitation of the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch to examine the cases treated in Germany with Friedmann's injection, because we consider that it is thoroughly desirable—or rather urgently necessary—so far as possible to obtain a verdict upon Friedmann's treatment.

"A commission of specialists is best adapted for such a purpose. It will approach the cases with complete impartiality and objectivity, and hopes to receive the support of such German doctors as may be concerned.

"The commission hopes to be able to present its report in about four weeks. In accordance with German scientific custom, it will publish no reports during its inquiry, nor until the publication of its complete report at the end of its inquiry.

"Beyond reimbursement for their direct out-of-pocket expenditures, the members desire to decline all fees.

"KRAUS,
"JOACHIMSTHAL.
"WOLFF-EISNER."

(Note—The payments which the World and Post-Dispatch are to make to each of these scientists are to be devoted by them to the furtherance of clinics and other scientific undertakings in which they are individually interested.)

Intense Interest in Berlin.

Dr. Friedmann announced his "cure" to the Berlin Medical Society Nov. 6 last. Up to that time he virtually was unknown. Since then one of the most bitter controversies in the history of medicine has been waging about his claims to cure tuberculosis by injection of live tubercular germs rendered nonvirulent by having passed through the blood of a turtle.

Following Dr. Friedmann's announcement to the Berlin Medical Society, he and his managers began a campaign of exploitation. Charges of commercialism beclouded whatever success Friedmann may have attained in his own country. German scientists demanded that he should give his treatment to the world. Finally, in February, Dr. Friedmann consented to turn over samples of his serum to Prof. Erlich, chief of the German Government institute for instrumental therapeutics. A week later, his discovery having still no standing in German scientific circles, Dr. Friedmann sailed for the United States.

No comprehensive report upon the results of Friedmann's cases in Germany ever has been made. Opinions here have been a-plenty and individual reports on isolated cases, but no such investigation as that which the World proposed for the purpose of fixing some definite conclusion in the minds of professional men.

The announcement that three men so eminently qualified had consented to make this investigation was received today with intense interest in medical circles in Berlin. The commission is recognized as being an admirable one; in fact, it is generally agreed that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to constitute a small committee better qualified to make a fair investigation and return a conclusive report.

Upon the best scientific advice it was decided that the commission should be

AMENDED GARDINER DIVORCE PETITION NAMES MRS. MILLER

Dentist's Wife, Seeking Divorce, Tells of Husband's Trips With Widow.

$100,000 SUIT PENDING

Wife Declares Couple Attended Circus Together and Dined at Restaurants.

Mrs. Georgiana Miller, 5435 Maple avenue, a wealthy widow, is named specifically for the first time in the Gardiner divorce proceedings in an amended petition filed Saturday at Clayton by Mrs. Olive Wilcox Gardiner against Dr. W. W. Gardiner, a dentist at Delmar avenue and King's highway.

In the new petition Mrs. Gardiner alleges that her husband, Feb. 1, 1913, accompanied Mrs. Miller to Chicago, where they stopped four days at a hotel. April 1, Dr. Gardiner returned to St. Louis after spending two weeks with Mrs. Miller in Louisville, Indianapolis and Chicago, according to the petition.

In detailing the alleged actions of Gardiner and Mrs. Miller in St. Louis, Mrs. Gardiner states in her petition that they went to the Barnum & Bailey circus together May 16, went driving in Mrs. Miller's electric coupe May 18 and later occupied a box at a performance in a St. Louis theater, dined together in a cafe on South Grand avenue May 3 and gives several dates on which it is alleged they went together to moving picture shows.

Dr. Gardiner has been in Clayton almost daily recently visiting the Circuit Clerk's office to see if any further papers had been filed in the suit by his wife. He grew impatient several times and requested newspaper rporters to talk with his wife's attorney and "pump" him to see when further action would be taken. He was not in Clayton Saturday when the paper was filed Alienation Suit Pending.

A suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Miller brought by Mrs. Gardiner alleging the widow alienated her husband's affections, is pending in the Clayton Court.

The original divorce petition, filed April 21, by Mrs. Gardiner, asserted that her husband admitted to her that he had associated with other women, but Mrs. Miller was not named in that petition. The damage suit was filed later.

The divorce hearing was specially set for May 5, but was reset for May 27 when the children of Mrs. Miller demanded of Judge Wurdeman that the case be given no special precedence over others.

When the suit was called May 27 it was continued 10 days to enable Gardner to file an answer. Mrs. Gardiner's attorney at that time announced that an amended petition probably would be filed.

Ask Guardian for Mrs. Miller.

A week after Mrs. Gardiner's divorce suit was filed, Mrs. Marie Connor of Boston, a daughter of Mrs. Miller, filed a suit in St. Louis in behalf of the children, asking that a guardian be appointed for Mrs. Miller. The allegation was made that Mrs. Miller frequently became intoxicated and was not capable of taking care of her property.

Mrs. Miller, in a statement a few days later, declared that the filing of the suit by her daughter was the result of gossip connecting her name with Dr. Gardiner. She also stated that Mrs. Gardiner was unreasonably jealous of her.

The Gardiners, before their separation, lived in a country home in Ashby place, on the Creve Coeur Lake line. Mrs. Gardiner is living with relatives in St. Louis.

HUNT FOR WILSON'S "INSIDIOUS" LOBBY BEGINS ON MONDAY

Senators Will Be Called Before Investigating Committee in Alphabetical Order.

OVERMAN IS CHAIRMAN

President Will Not Be Formally Asked to Aid the Committee in Its Work.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Senate's investigation of the "numerous and insidious lobby" President Wilson charged was threatening the tariff bill, will begin Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock by a committee composed of Senators Overman, Walsh, Cummins, Reed and Nelson. Overman will be chairman.

The investigation will be conducted openly in the public hearing room of the Judiciary Committee in the Senate office building and members of the Senate will be called in alphabetical order, Senator Ashurst of Arizona, thus, will be the first witness.

At the Senate Judiciary Committee meeting today acting Chairman Overman reported several Senators were prepared to submit names.

"We will not ask the President to come before the committee," said Chairman Overman. "What the President wishes to do in the matter the committee will leave to his own good judgment. We hope to conclude the inquiry in 10 days as specified in the resolution. It is our purpose to rush it as rapidly as possible, not overlooking anything of importance that develops."

Senators on the finance subcommittees, grinding on the tariff bill, foreswore their usual week-end holidays and continued at work. The subcommittee working on administrative features considered the possibility of amending the "anti-dumping" clause to take in articles on the free list and worked on a modification of the provision to compel foreign manufacturers to show their books to American custom agents. Several nations have protested against it.

Neither the House nor the Senate was in session today.

DIRECT SENATOR VOTE PROCLAMATION SIGNED

Bryan Uses Four Pens in Validating Constitutional Amendment.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—In the presence of a notable company, including many legislators who had to do with its adoption, Secretary Bryan today signed the formal announcement of the seventeenth amendment to the Constitution, providing for the direct election of Senators.

Former Representative Harry St. George Tucker of Virginia, chairman of a committee in the Fifty-second Congress having charge of the first direct election of Senators resolution that passed the House; Representative Ruckler of Missouri, chairman of the Committee in the Sixty-second Congress which had charge of the resolution which finally was adopted, and Senator Borah, who championed the change in the Senate, were present, as was Mrs. Bryan.

Secretary Bryan used four pens to sign the proclamation. The first which he used to write "William," went to Tucker, the second, with which he wrote "Jennings," went to Rucker; the third, with which he wrote "Bryan," he kept himself, and that with which he wrote the date he delivered to Senator Borah.

That hot weather Friday and Saturday is nothing much to brag about. To be sure, the temperature of 93 registered at the Weather Bureau was the highest ever shown on a Decoration day, but there have been hotter days earlier in May in other years.

Don't you remember what a sizzler we had on May 14, 1836? It was 98 that day at the weather office, and above a hundred on the streets. Then none of us have forgotten that it was pretty warm, 97, on May 22, 1870, and just two years ago, on May 26, it was 94. And Observer Hayes says it is quite the expected thing for the stations over the country to show from 94 to 98 in the latter part of May.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Missouri—Generally fair tonight and Sunday, not much change in temperature.

Illinois—Mostly cloudy and unsettled in north; generally fair in south portion tonight and Sunday, not much change in temperature.

CUP PRESENTATION BEGINNING OF BIG GET-TOGETHER ERA

Post-Dispatch Membership Contest Trophy Given at Biggest Intercity Meeting.

30 ORGANIZATIONS THERE

Huge Floral Key Placed on Speaker's Stand Exemplifies East Side Spirit.

POST-DISPATCH STANZA FOR "WHAT'S THE MATTER" SONG.

THE musical hit of the Get-Together meeting was William Seager's song, "What's the Matter With Us?" With respect to the Business Men's League, the Commercial Club, and the two cities, this interrogation was answered with the familiar quotation: "They're All Right." The final stanza of the song was:

WHAT'S the matter with the "Post-Dispatch?"
It's all right.
Always first in everything,
And it stands for right.
It put up the loving cup
To make the cities whoop her up.
What's the matter with the "Post-Dispatch?"
It's all right.
This stanza brought a hearty encore from the big crowd.

The presentation of the Post-Dispatch loving cup to the Commercial Club of East St. Louis at the Coliseum Friday night was made the occasion of the biggest get-together demonstration of commercial, industrial and civic organizations ever held in St. Louis.

President Shapleigh, in his speech presenting the loving cup to President Thrasher of the Commercial Club, made the prophecy that as the result of the get-together movement the Eads bridge eventually would be acquired either by lease or purchase and made a free highway between Missouri and Illinois, the upper deck being used for pedestrian, wagon and street car traffic and the lower deck as the conecting link between a St. Louis subway and the interurban railway systems converging in East St. Louis.

The meeting was attended by the representatives of more than 30 organizations in St. Louis, East St. Louis and towns within a radius of 50 miles. The 1200 members of the East St. Louis Commercial Club assembled at the Jefferson Hotel and headed by a band, marched three abreast to the Coliseum The column was four blocks long.

Floral Key to City.

They carried the banner of the East St. Louis Commercial Club at the head of the column and a huge floral key to East St. Louis midway in the column. The key was placed on the speaker's stand as an emblem of friendship and good will. President Thrasher humorously expressed the wish that St. Louisans would get the habit of using the key on other days than Sunday.

Members of the Business Men's League stood at the Coliseum entrances extending greetings to their guests and decorating them with badges. They had a smile for everybody, and gave the East St. Louis delegation a rousing cheer when it marched in behind its band playing "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

When President Shapleigh called the meeting to order he invited the officers of all visiting organizations to occupy seats on the speaker's platform. The speakers, besides President Shapleigh and President Thrasher, were Mayor Kiel of St. Louis, Mayor Chamberlin of East St. Louis and E. F. Trefz, Field Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Get Acquainted Recess.

President Shapleigh stopped the proceedings for a few minutes to give everybody a chance to get acquainted. He requested everybody in the Coliseum who did not know the men at his right or left to introduce himself and shake hands. For a few minutes there was a general handshaking. The seating had been arranged so that Business Men's League members were scattered throughout the visiting delegations for the purpose of getting acquainted with their guests.

Explaining that the meeting was called to encourage and develop a militant civic spirit in St. Louis and the cities represented at the meeting, President Shapleigh spoke briefly of the growth and progress of St. Louis during the past 10 years. During that period, he said, St. Louis had kept pace with other cities, showing a satisfactory gain in every department or industry and a loss in none.

But with the development of the rich Southwest, he declared that St. Louis is destined to become the great metropolis of the West.

Need Free Passage Way.

"Much of St. Louis' prosperity is due to East St. Louis," he said, "I like the spirit of East St. Louis. But intercourse between the two cities is not easy enough. If the people of St. Louis and East St. Louis are alive to their opportunity, and know what is good for them, the fee for crossing the river will soon be eliminated."

President Shapleigh followed this statement with the outline of the plan

LITTLE GIRL WHO PREFERRED GRANDFATHFR TO MOTHER

CHILD OF REUNITED PARENTS BEWAILS ORDER TO GO HOME

Little Girl Howls When Judge Takes Her Away From Grandfather's Care.

In utter contempt of judicial dignity, 4-year-old Hildegard Whittington set up a big howl in Judge Taylor's court Saturday when he ordered her grandfather, Herman Mueller, to turn her over to the custody of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whittington.

"I don't want to leave grandpapa," she cried, bursting into tears. "I don't want to go to my mamma!"

Mueller reluctantly obeyed the order of the Court, but shook his finger in his daughter's face. He left the courtroom crying and outside was joined by his wife, who cried so loudly that she could be heard throughout the corridors of the courthouse.

Husband and Wife Reunited.

When Mrs. Whittington left her husband, 18 months ago, she took the little girl to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mueller, who live at 3429 Eads avenue. She got a divorce from Whittington in June last year on her charges that he mistreated her and struck her. Last December the couple remarried, but Mueller and his wife, who had become much attached to Hildegard, refused to give her up.

The Whittington's filed habeas corpus proceedings to regain her custody. After hearing the evidence Saturday, Judge Taylor decided that as the Whittingtons were living happily together now, they were the proper custodians of their child.

Child Given to Mother.

"Is the child in court?" asked Judge Taylor.

Mueller walked to the bench, with the little girl clinging to his hand.

"Turn the child over to its mother," ordered the Court.

Mueller obeyed, but turned and shook his finger angrily in his daughter's face.

Before they left the courthouse, Mueller and his wife asked for permission to kiss Hildegard good-by. This was granted, but it started the little girl to crying a second time, and she continued to cry at the top of her voice until she was taken away.

The Whittingtons are now living in a three-room flat at 3345 Folsom avenue. Whittington is a locomotive fireman. Mueller contended that the child was neglected during the first marriage of the couple and that this was ground for the Court to refuse the application for the writ.

"NAKED TRUTH" DESIGNER GETS MINOR CARTOON

German Sculptor and Wife Visit Post-Dispatch and Marvel at Swiftness.

Herr W. Wilhelm Wandschneider, the German sculptor whose monument model of "The Naked Truth" is causing a controversy in the directorate of the Schurz-Preetorius-Daenzer Memorial Association, made an inspection tour of the Post-Dispatch plant Saturday morning, accompanied by Frau Wandschneider.

The original cartoon by Robert Minor Jr., printed in last Wednesday's Post Dispatch, was presented to Herr Wandschneider, who enthusiastically exclaimed, in German, that he would take it back to Germany and hang it in a conspicuous place in his studio. The cartoon showed a woman in a barrel labeled "The Naked Truth." Its title was "Back to Germany."

Watching the artists at work, both Herr and Frau Wandschneider declared that the work required great deftness. In the photo-engraving department the visitors were amazed when told that photographs were converted into cuts, ready for use, in 30 minutes. A drawing of Col. Roosevelt was shown the couple who, in chorus, exclaimed that Roosevelt was very popular in Germany. And Frau Wandschneider continued, "I think he was the greatest of all Presidents."

In the noise and heat of the composing room the visitors learned how news stories are set into type and prepared for the stereotyping room, where paper impressions of the type are used as molds for the plates required for the presses.

Frau Wandschneider expressed great surprise that the men in the composing room could do their work properly in the necessary confusion. The heat of the day did not bother the distinguished visitors. Frau Wandschneider saying they were used to the heat in Germany.

No progress has been made in settling the controversy which has arisen over the monument model and Frau Wandschneider declared no further steps would be taken until the special committee meets next week. Friday the visitors motored through the residential districts of the city and through Forest Park with friends. Wandschneider declared some of the residences to be "magnificent and marvelous," and the park "simply grand."

Friday evening the visitors were entertained at the Artists' Guild.

After leaving the Post-Dispatch plant Saturday the visitors went to the Jefferson Barracks to view the grounds and visit acquaintances there.

YARMOUTH, N. S., May 31.—The Norwegian ship Freia, which went ashore yesterday at Sunday Point near here in a 60-mile gale was literally dashed to pieces during the night. Her valuable cargo of lumber is strewn for miles along the coast. Capt. Olsen, his wife and the crew got off in safety.

The Freia arrived here for Montevideo via Barbados on March 20 in ballast to load lumber for Bahia Blanca. She was a three masted ship, full rigged.

CORTELYOU, LOEB AND OTHERS CALL T. R. AMSTEMIOUS

"He Was as Temperate as Any Man I Ever Saw," Testifies Former Secretary to Roosevelt, Who Says He Never Smelt Liquor on Colonel's Breath.

TOOK LITTLE WINE ON RIXEY'S ADVICE

Frank Tyree, Secret Service Man, Saw Him Take "a Little Wine With Water in It—A Wine Highball at Banquets."

By Associated Press.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 31.—The examination of witnesses in the libel suit of Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett proceeded with speed today, and it was expected that by night the direct evidence for the plaintiff, including depositions, would be before the jury. The evidence introduced during the forenoon was unvarying in character. It was to the effect that Col. Roosevelt always has been very abstemious.

The witnesses who testified personally were Joseph E. Bayless of Sault Ste. Marie, who said he had read the alleged libelous article; Emlen Roosevelt, a first cousin of the plaintiff; Frank Tyree and James Sloan, Secret Service men, and William P. Shauffeler, a railroad man, who handled one of the Roosevelt itineraries in Ohio, and William Loeb Jr., who was secretary to President Roosevelt.

Depositions of Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; George B. Cortelyou, former private secretary to President Roosevelt, and later in his Cabinet; Lawrence H. Graham, a newspaper man, and George H. Roosevelt, whose father is a cousin of the plaintiff, were read by Attorney Van Benschoten.

Emlen Roosevelt said he was 36 years old and that his father and the father of the plaintiff, who were brothers, had been associated in business.

It was announced by James H. Pound, chief counsel for Col. Roosevelt, that after the testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses, numerous depositions on behalf of the Colonel would be offered as tending to show that Col. Roosevelt used intoxicants only moderately. It may be two or three days into next week before the case is turned over to the defense. It was stated in court that the defense also will offer several score of depositions from many persons residing in Ohio.

To the surprise of everybody, the examination was very brief. It was announced that an afternoon session of court would be held.

"What has been your association with your cousin?" asked Attorney Pound for the plaintiff.

"Very intimate. Have been with him for two weeks at a time. When we were boys we lived near each other. Later I was with him on hunting trips. I was with him when he was sworn in as President and also as President at Buffalo on the death of President McKinley. I made trips with him in the Mayflower, the Government boat placed at his service. I have been in a position to know every detail of his public and for the plaintiff.

Observation of Colonel.

"What has been your observation through your senses of smell and sight as to whether he was a drinking man?"

"My observation was that he is not a drinker."

"Has he ever been under the influence of liquor?"

"Never was, so far as I observed."

"What has been his habit in reference to profanity?"

"He does not use it."

The witness was excused without cross-examination. William Loeb Jr., former Collector of Customs of the Port of New York, testified he first met Col Roosevelt when the latter became Governor of New York. During the seven and one-half years of the Roosevelt administration, Loeb said he was associated with the President, first as Assistant Secretary to him, and later as his secretary.

Saw President Daily.

Loeb said he saw Col. Roosevelt as President every day, including holidays. "I was in touch with him all his working hours, from 9 a. m. till midnight," said the witness.

"To what extent did he indulge in intoxicants?"

"He was as temperate as any man I ever saw."

"What can you say as to his drinking wine on his trips?"

"Occasionally he took a little white wine, on advice of Dr. Rixey."

"Did you ever perceive the odor of liquor on his breath?"

"Never."

Asked about state dinners at the White House, Loeb said, "I attended those dinners because they were under my charge. Col. Roosevelt usually drank a little champagne."

"How many glasses did he drink?"

"One or two glasses."

In the summer Loeb explained that the President carried on the Govern-

SPEYER PLANS A FIGHT TO NAME A FRISCO RECEIVER

Bank Lawyers to Work With F. W. Lehmann to Gain Representative for Bondholders.

WAR WITH B. F. YOAKUM

Wall Street Believes That Legal Proceedings for Control Will Be Begun Next Week.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Members of the international banking firm of Speyer & Co. held a conference today with New York lawyers who will co-operate with Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis as counsel, to determine a plan of action in a fight to bring about the dismissal of at least one of the receivers appointed for the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad and the substitution of a man to represent the interest of the bondholders.

Lehmann is expected here early next week and will soon return to St. Louis where the receivers now in charge of the road were appointed. It is believed legal proceedings will be begun next week.

James Speyer has canceled an intended trip to Europe and will remain here to look after the interests of the holders of the $65,000,000 Frisco bonds which Speyer & Co. floated and for whom, it is said, on behalf of the firm, it feels a responsibility.

French Watch Proceedings.

Dispatches from Paris say that French investors in the bonds are indignant that the receivers should have been appointed without consulting the bondholders of the road and proposed to send representatives to this country to follow the reorganization proceedings.

The fact that Speyer & Co. issued a statement saying that they were "not consulted" in the appointment of the receivers, both of whom are officials of the road, has brought about what is characterized in Wall street as open warfare between the firm of B. F. Yoakum, head of the road, and it is predicted that the coming legal contest will amount virtually to a fight to control the Frisco.

Yoakum Optimistic.

Yoakum is quoted as saying that "the securities of the company all are safe. The stock will be worth more than ever. It will only take a little time to demonstrate this."

The fact that the Frisco's bonded indebtedness far exceeds its outstanding stock issues, is, according to Wall street opinion, the chief cause of the road's troubles. On behalf of the Speyer firm it is said that the fate of the bonds which are a lien ahead of the stock, is the more important question to be determined.

Friction between Speyer & Co. and Yoakum began a few months ago. It is said, when the firm declined to finance maturing notes for $2,250,000. This brought about the receivership, although the earnings of the road, the bankers say did not warrant such action.

ONCE ROBBED ON STREET; SECOND TIME IS SAVED

Young Man Held Up by Highwayman Thursday Night Escapes Following Evening.

With Leon Engelhart, drug clerk living at 844 North King's highway, lightning struck twice in the same place, Thursday night Engelhart was held up by a highwayman who was backed by five passive young men. Friday night at 11:30 while walking home and passing the spot in Forest Park corresponding to King's highway and Forest Park boulevard, he observed George Glaze of 114 North Broadway sitting on a park bench.

"Say," he remarked to Glaze," this is where I was held up last night. It's dangerous here."

Glaze made some remark about things like that not happening twice when two men came up.

"Say Pal," began the first one.

Glaze got up about that time. He had drawn his knife and stepped towards the two men with the blade ready.

"Excuse me," said the man and then both strangers departed

Englehart said the one who spoke was the man who took his money Thursday night.

SANITY QUESTIONED; CUTS SELF WITH RAZOR

Inmate of Observation Ward at Edwardsville Is Found With Wound in Neck.

Henry Rawlings, 45 years old, who who was taken to Edwardsville, Ill., from Venice to be placed in the observation ward, was found unconscious Saturday in a bathroom at the County Hospital. He had a deep cut in his neck, and held a safety razor blade in his right hand.

He had been taken to the bathroom by an attendant to be given a bath before entering the institution, and the razor blade had been overlooked when his clothing was searched. The attendant left the room to answer a call. When he returned he found his patient lying on the floor. Rawlings declared he cut himself accidentally while shaving. He says he is a preacher, but refused to tell with what congregation he had been associated.

American Duchess' Criticism Stirs Ire of London Press

Her Grace of Marlborough Rebuked

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Remarks on Educational Needs Draws Shafts From Officials and Laymen.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, May 31.—Unwittingly the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York, has stirred up a hornet's nest in her eagerness to do good among the poor. For years she has been very active in helping to benefit the working classes, especially the women. She has gone into the slums frequently to relieve distress, she has enlisted the co-operation of the rich and the mighty and her benevolent enterprises have won warm praise from Queen Mary, who sometimes has accompanied her on errands of mercy.

One evening this week the Duchess made a speech at a meeting of the St. Pancras School for Mothers, of which she is a generous patron, and her well-intended remarks has called forth much inconsiderate, unkind criticism in the public press.

To make matters worse, Princess Christian, an aunt of King George, presided at the meeting and there is nothing more distasteful to royalties than to be mixed up in a controversy, especially if it has a political tinge.

Criticizes Educational Scheme.

The expressions of the Duchess which seem to have aroused the most resentment were these:

"Enough has been written to show that our system of education has failed to turn out better workingmen, more competent mothers, more self-reliant men and women. Lessons in mothercraft have to be supplemented by rudimentary instruction in cooking and housework, while personal and domestic hygiene also are unknown factors."

Dr. Marion Phillips, the General Secretary of the Women's Labor League, complains in this fashion:

"What can you cook without stoves? And what percentage of the working people have stoves? Evidently the Duchess does not know that in some districts the cooking has to be done entirely on an ordinary open fireplace. Would the Duchess be able to do anything better than the average working woman in those circumstances? You need to be careful and very clever indeed to cook anything without a stove or other utensils. The Duchess is very well meaning, but uninformed. Personal hygiene is not much more practicable among working men who have only the clothes they stand up in and must stay in bed while the wife washes her husband's only shirt."

Talk Called Socialism.

Capt. Jessel, a Unionist member of Parliament for St. Pancras criticised the Duchess and other speakers for talking rank Socialism on the subject of the duty of the State to the individual and the insufficiency of the present rate of wages.

A newspaper which prints the replies to Her Grace publishes an article entitled: "Some questions for Missis Duke." They are:

Exactly how well can you cook?

Could you keep yourself clean in a slum?

Do you know as much as your maids of the science of personal and domestic hygiene?

Could you make a tenement in the East End glorious with a bit of yellow soap and worn out scrubbing brush?

Do you make and mend the dresses of your family?

Could you patch a pair of unpatchable trousers?

Do you look after the Duke and see he is trim and tidy?

Would you care to polish him up when he returned grimed through with the dirt of a factory?

Could you keep clean if you hadn't a bath?

Do you know everything about that science of motherhood whereof you talk so eloquently?

Then the newspaper comments on the Duchess' ideas thus:

"Advice? Yes, from a practical housewife and mother who has to do it, a working woman is willing to take it, but not the patronage of a Duchess. Do not, Your Grace, preach from your luxuriously upholstered pedestal the practice of these virtues, of which the working woman know as much as you."

Recent American Bias.

It is evident that the Duchess' critics are resentful because they imagine that she, as an American, criticises the English working woman with a national bias. This, of course, is most unjust, as the Duchess is entirely English in her point of view.

Miss Porter, the lady sanitary inspector of the East End, indignantly declares:

"It is not true that poor English mothers are wilfully dirty or careless. Nearly always they are anxious to do well by their children and it is positively miraculous that they succeed even so well as they do under the wretched conditions. If the Duchess of Marlborough really desires first-hand knowledge of how the poor live, it will be quite easy for me to show her homes where the cookery is practically impossible."

The Duchess explains:

"It was entirely misunderstood. I know well the living conditions among the English working women are miserable and I have worked for years for their betterment in my own small way.

Considering how long, how generously, extensively and unobtrusively the Duchess has worked among the poor, this last criticism is particularly harsh and ungrateful.

Cousin Testifies in Libel Trial to Sobriety of T. R.

ment business at Oyster Bay, where, he said, the Colonel's habits of sobriety were strictly adhered to.

"On your trips about the country with him, was he immoderate in the use of intoxicants?"

"He was extremely moderate. On very exhausting days he sometimes took a little liquor in milk."

"In the last 15 years would it have been possible for Mr. Roosevelt to have gotten drunk, not only once, but frequently?"

"It would have been impossible."

"What about porter, beer and ale; did he drink it?"

"I never saw him take malt."

The attorney for the plaintiff next directed attention to the reception given by the then Speaker Cannon on the occasion of his seventieth birthday.

"Did you go with the President to this reception?" asked the lawyer.

Speaker Cannon's Party

"The President, myself and Mr. Sloan, the Secret Service man, left the house to go to the dinner at 9 o'clock. I also came home with him."

"What was his condition as to sobriety?" asked Attorney Pound.

"Sober."

"Did you see him take a drink during the hour he was there?"

"I saw him go with the Speaker and drink a glass of champagne."

"One?"

"Yes, one."

"Leaving the reception and going to the White House, will you tell the jury whether he was under the influence of liquor?"

"Absolutely not."

Witness referred to a record kept by the White House usher and then testified that Col. Roosevelt returned to the White House at 11:30 a. m.

Tyree's Testimony.

Frank Tyree, United States Marshal of the Southern District of West Virginia, who was in the Secret Service during the Roosevelt administration and who was detailed to accompany the President on various trips, next testified.

"What was your duty?"

"I was detailed to look after the President, to protect him against cranks and to take precaution for his personal safety."

"How close in touch were you with him?"

"Very close. I went with him to banquets, churches, theaters and trains. At Oyster Bay there were eight of us on this duty."

"What was the truth as to his sobriety while you were with him?"

"He always was perfectly sober."

"You never saw him under the influence of liquor?"

"Certainly not," said Tyree, sharply.

"At his meals what kind of liquor did you see him consume?"

"None whatever. I never saw him drink whisky at all."

"At banquets I have seen him take white wine with water in it—a wine highball, I'd call it."

Coming to a visit to Milwaukee in 1903, when he was a guest of the Deutscher Club, Tyree told how the Colonel was pressed to take a glass of beer.

"I Don't Drink Beer."

"'I don't drink beer,' the President said."

"'But this is the drink that made our city famous,' it was argued, and as a concession, the President took one swallow."

Attorney Andrews on cross-examination brought out answers showing the vigilance exercised by the Secret Service men. The next witness was James Sloan, a Secret Service man.

Sloan said he was now detailed to the White House to look after the personal safety of President Wilson, just as he had been assigned to Col. Roosevelt.

"From your intimate observations of what Mr. Roosevelt ate and drank, what would you say as to his sobriety—and was he sober or drunk?"

"Always sober."

Witness said because of the near-sightedness of the President, he often took his arm in walking.

"Was there any intemperance that caused you to take his arm and assist him?"

"There was not."

Sloan said he accompanied the President to Cannon's seventieth birthday anniversary banquet and on that occasion the Colonel drank nothing other than one glass of wine. Witness was given only a brief cross-examination.

No Liquor on Car.

William P. Shauffle, a railroad official, testified that in May, 1912, he started from New York on a campaign trip with Col. Roosevelt.

"How was your car stocked with liquors?"

"There was no liquor on the car."

Witness then told in detail various stops Col. Roosevelt made while touring Ohio. Throughout that trip, he said, he never saw the Colonel drink beer, wine or whisky.

"In all of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches, what can you say as to whether they were incoherent or peculiar?"

"His speeches were those of a sober man."

The witness said, on being cross-examined, he made the trip because of his railroad knowledge of Ohio. He then was excused.

Attorney Van Benschoten, for the plaintiff, called for the deposition of Albert Shaw, editor of the American Review of Reviews at New York.

Shaw became acquainted with Col. Roosevelt while the latter was Police Commissioner of New York. Witness told of frequent meetings with plaintiff throughout his career.

The reading of the deposition was sprinkled with objection, but Andrews waived most of these as Van Schoten came to them. Shaw described Col. Roosevelt as a man of great vitality, of great industry and a sound scheme of life. Shaw had observed Col. Roosevelt drinking tea when stronger drinks were being served to others present.

Cortelyou Swears to Sobriety.

The next deposition was that of George B. Cortelyou, who was Secretary of Commerce and Labor early in the Roosevelt administration and later Secretary of the Treasury. When McKinley was assassinated Cortelyou became secretary to President Roosevelt. At all times, he said, he was in close touch with the President, except on some campaign trips. He swore that the Colonel was a man of abstemious habits.

The next deposition was that of Lawrence H. Graham, a newspaper man, who testified to having known Col. Roosevelt at Montauk Point after the war in Cuba and later at the White House and Oyster Bay. Like the others, Graham considered the plaintiff a man of very abstemious habits.

George H. Roosevelt, son of a cousin of Col. Roosevelt, testified he had been on riding, driving, walking, swimming and rowing trips with the plaintiff. On these trips Col. Roosevelt invariably refused to take liquor when offered by hosts, the witness said.

"I have sometimes seen Col. Roosevelt take light wine, but only on rare occasions. He never drank whisky," the witness said.

George H. Roosevelt's deposition was ended when court adjourned until 2 p. m.

MAN GETS $200 FOR LOSS OF HIS BEAUTY

Arbitration Board in Illinois Decides Against Railway in Case of Ruined Eye.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 31.—A board of arbitration in the case of a machinist, Charles Chick, against the C. & E. I. Railroad, under the compensation law, decided today that a man can possess beauty and obtain damages for loss of it.

Chick was struck in the right eye with a piece of steel last September, when at work. The pupil was destroyed and he asked damages for loss of time, for the handicap by reason of loss of the eye, and loss of beauty.

The railway company claimed that a man does not possess such a thing as beauty, but the board decided Chick's appearance had been damaged $200 and that he suffered $500 more in damages to his eye and in loss of time.

The board was comprised of five attorneys named by the Court and was headed by Arthur Hall, famous University of Illinois football coach.

HANGS UNCONSCIOUS ON BRIDGE FOR 6 HOURS

Old Man Falls Breaking Ribs and Lies Helpless While Trains Pass by.

JOLIET, Ill., May 31.—John Peterson, 60 years old, a prominent Cook County politician, today hung unconscious for six hours on the girders of a bridge on the Chicago & Alton Railroad while fast passenger trains thundered by on the tracks a few feet away. Peterson, who conducts a saloon in Lemont, started walking toward Chicago, stumbled on the ties of the bridge and fell, breaking four ribs. His unconscious body remained suspended over the water until discovered at 7 o'clock this morning by a section foreman.

PROTEST MADE AGAINST T RAIL ON WASH STREET

Property Owners Say Use of Such Will Cause Loss in Values.

Property owners on Wash street between 1600 and 2700, where the United Railways Co. is at present laying a new line of tracks, will file a protest with the railway company against using T-shaped, instead of the flange rails. Vehicles are unable to use the T-rail on which to drive.

S. Lasky of 1624 Wash street is the prime mover in the effort to have the flange rail laid. Saturday he will circulate a petition among the resident and business men of Wash street addressed to the United Railways Co. asking it to use the flange rail. Lasky says the laying of the T-rail will deter teamsters from using Wash street, and in this way depreciate the value of property adjacent to it.

small in order to be mobile, and that in order to expedite its report, its members should all be from Berlin.

Prof. Friederich Kraus, as successor to the chair of the famous Gerhardt, has made the charity clinic the center of scientific life in the domain of internal medicine. In this clinic German and foreign doctors, among them many Americans, foregather. The Kraus school now stands at the top when vacancies in the staff of German universities are to be filled.

Friederich Kraus was born at Lodenbach, Bohemia, in 1858. He studied in Prague and Vienna and became assistant professor in numerous physiological, chemical, pathological and anatomical institutes. In 1890 he went into the Gratz Clinic and in 1893 became professor extraordinary and in 1894 its director. After Gerhardt's death he was called to Berlin on the advice of Dr. Althoff.

Prof. Georg Joachimstahl was born in Stargard, Pommerania, in 1863. He studied in Berlin and was for many years assistant to Julius Wolff in the birthplace of Modern Orthopedic Surgery, the Berlin university polyclinic. Subsequently he succeeded Hoffa in Wolff's famous chair.

Prof. Joachimsthal is one of the most prominent men in Europe in his special branch and for many years has been on the council of the Orthopaedic Congress, which assembles every February in Berlin and brings together the world's foremost authorities. In 1897 Joachimsthal took the prize of the Paris academy, becoming laureate de l'institute of France, and had a great share in the academy's remarkable scientific development. He works daily on a vast number of cases of bone tuberculosis, which makes him a specially valuable member of this commission.

Dr. Alfred Wolff-Eisner was born in Berlin in 1877. He studied in Berlin, Kiel and Tubingen. After working at the Hygienic Institute at Koenigsberg he became assistant to Prof. Serator in the Berlin University Polyclinic; he was then made director of the bacteriological department of Friederichshafen Hospital in East Berlin. Among his long series of published works are monographs on the composition of the blood, bacteriological studies, investigations in prophylactics and immunization, in which domain he first formulated the doctrine of supersensitiveness.

DELAYED USE OF PULMOTOR FAILS TO REVIVE BOYS

Three Youths Are Drowned in County Ponds While on Holiday Outings.

Several hours' work with a pulmotor Friday night failed to revive two boys drowned at 8:30 p. m. while swimming in a pond in St. Louis County. A clash of authority between County officials concerning the removal of the bodies after they were taken from the water delayed the use of the pulmotor five hours. After the machine was taken to the scene its use proved of no avail.

Three youths, spending the holiday in outings in the County, lost their lives by drowning.

William C. Lewis, 12 years old, of 7404 Ethel avenue, and Samuel Wolf 10, of 7521 Ethel avenue, on whom the pulmotor was used, were drowned in a pond near Pennsylvania avenue and Wyndown boulevard, near Hillcrest subdivision. Samuel lost his life while trying to rescue his companion.

Milton Petty, 17, of 6703 Schofield place, a bookkeeper, was drowned in a lake at the Universal Exposition grounds. He was seized with cramps while he was swimming in water 18 feet deep.

Samuel went swimming against the orders of his mother. Seven boys were swimming in the pond, which is about eight feet deep, when William screamed for help and sank near the center of the pond. Samuel went to rescue his chum, and both went down.

The other swimmers became frightened and did not tell of the drowning for half an hour, when they reached a grading camp. H. Mittelberg, foreman of the camp, went to the pond and after half an hour's effort brought the bodies to the shore.

The bodies lay in an ambulance five hours while Williams' father vainly sought to get permission from the county authorities to remove the boys to a St. Louis undertaking establishment where the pulmotor could be used. A pulmotor of the United Railways Co. was hurried to the undertaking rooms and kept there until the ambulance arrived.

Lewis talked with Coroner Bopp over the telephone and Bopp announced he would come to the scene in a few minutes. After waiting three hours, Lewis called Judge Wurdeman, who told him to remove the bodies at once if he thought there was a chance to save their lives, and said he would assume the responsibility.

Bacon has made a discovery. He can stay up at night and be rested by drinking Belcher Water Splits.

ZOO IS FUSSED UP WITH NEW BABIES AND OSTRICH EGG

Stork Brings Little Deer and Elk and Lady Featherbloom Does Her Duty.

Memorial Day was a busy day at the Forest Park zoo. Two babies were born, one a perfect little deer and the other an elk. Lady Featherbloom laid another egg, and two mountain lions came to town to try to break into the zoo.

The baby deer, the baby elk and the ostrich egg were welcome, thrice welcome, but it does not yet appear whether the mountain lions are to be let in. They made the mistake of not being born in or hatched in.

When the lions were mentioned to Park Commissioner Davis he said there was no room for them. But they were such fine animals, and so cheap, that the Zoological Society ordered them anyway, confident that when the Commissioner sees them he will not be able to resist them and will make room for them. President George Dieckman and Martin C. Angermeyer, the park-keeper, say they are the most wonderful mountain lions they ever saw.

Dieckman Finds Lions.

President Dieckman was returning from Seattle and inquired of the conductor if he knew where some animals could be obtained. The conductor told him that Patrick Yeon of Havre, Mont., had a very fine pair of mountain lions. Dieckman sent his card by the conductor to Yeon and in a few days he heard from him. He wrote that he had captured the animals young and that they were so tame that he could enter their cage and they would feed from his hand.

Money which Benjamin Harris and A. P. Erber had contributed was put together and the animals were purchased. They arrived Friday and are being cared for by Dr. Andrew Darling, veterinarian, 4430 Olive street, until Park Commissioner Davis returns to the city Sunday evening and decides whether to admit them.

President Dieckman thinks that when Davis sees them he will be glad to make room for them. There are a pair of mountain lions at the park, but President Dieckman says they look like jack rabbits beside the new one.

The ostrich egg has been eagerly awaited for several days. Lady Featherbloom, who received her name in a competition conducted by the Post-Dispatch, which was won by Mrs. B. T. Willis of Mexico, Mo., laid one egg two weeks ago. A lady ostrich lays two eggs a year, usually about 10 days apart, so the second was watched for.

False Alarm on Egg.

Thursday there was a false alarm. A woman who had driven up in an automobile called the attention of Keeper Angermeyer to a thing that looked like an egg in the ostrich enclosure and asked him to call up Robert H. Keiser, a member of the Zoological Society, and tell him about it. Keiser motored out in hot haste and found that the thing that looked like an ostrich egg was a toy football painted white, filled with candy and a fuzzy little Easter chicken.

The first egg is in an incubator at the store of the St. Louis Seed Co., Fourth street and Lucas avenue, and is due to hatch, if it is the hatching kind, on July 8. The new egg will also be incubated.

The mother deer and the mother elk are the envy of all the other feminine deer and feminine elk at the Zoo. They are as fussy over their babies as a bunch of grandmothers and maiden aunts, and the infants are in danger of ennui from too much mothering.

Get Together Spirit Is Cheered at Presentation of Post-Dispatch Cup

Thirty Industrial Bodies Witness Presentation of Membership Trophy.

to buy or lease Eads bridge. He said that the making of the bridge free to all traffic would promote closer business relationship between all cities in the St. Louis industrial district to the benefit of all. He said that the St. Louis industrial district ranked third in manufacture. He urged the representatives of all the organizations to work not only for their own communities, but for the welfare of the entire district.

The work to be done by the Business Men's League with its enlarged and democratized membership was outlined by President Shapleigh. He said it was the intention of the league to broaden the scope of its activities and departmentize its work.

Some of Work Planned.

A bureau of industries, with a department of publicity to advertise St. Louis, and a department of civics to create better living conditions—to abate smoke, to encourage the building of playgrounds, boulevards, parks, and to supervise charities, would be among the new activities of the league, he said.

Another would be a Bureau of Trade and Commerce, he said, to encourage interstate trade, with a department to encourage foreign commerce, a department of manufactures to protect and foster established industries, a department to encourage people to use goods made in the St. Louis industrial district and to aid in a practical way the business and industrial establishments already are here.

The traffic bureau would be maintained on its present efficient basis, he said, and weekly luncheons would be held with delegates from every line of business in the city.

Before presenting the Post-Dispatch loving cup to President Thrasher, President Shapleigh paid a tribute to the spirit of the East St. Louis business men. He said that their work in enlarging their membership was an object lesson to the Business Men's League.

Birth of New Spirit.

President Thrasher, accepting the cup, made a short address. He said:

"This great gathering indicates the birth of a new and civic spirit in the whole St. Louis industrial district.

"East St. Louis is here tonight, not as victors, but as plain business men and public spirited citizens who realize and recognize that the interests of the St. Louis industrial district are their interests; that what is good for one city in this district is good for all cities in this district.

"The St. Louis industrial district comes under the head of 'Unfinished Business.' There are many great problems yet to be solved. The solution of these problems can only be brought about by co-operation. The spirit of co-operation can be fostered by meetings such as this and the great Business Men's League of St. Louis, in arranging this get together meeting, has started in a practical way what should have been done years ago.

"There must be a close relationship and a desire for co-operation on the part of all citizens in the St. Louis industrial district, if we hope to successfully compete with the industrial districts of other sections of this great and prosperous country. We must develop in this district a spirit of civic patriotism that will gain world-wide renown, and in view of the enthusiasm manifested by the various organizations assembled here tonight, it can and will be done.

Creed for the District.

"The creed of the people in this district should be, 'We believe in St. Louis industrial district, kissed by God and blessed by nature, and we will sacrifice our time and energy working shoulder to shoulder, to further the cause of the St. Louis industrial district.'

"The magnificent trophy which the St. Louis Post-Dispatch offered as a prize to stimulate the efforts of the Business Men's League and the East St. Louis Commercial Club, certainly had the desired effect. The membership campaigns in both cities have stimulated civic pride as it never has been stimulated before in the history of both municipalities.

"East St. Louis accepts this trophy, not in a spirit of victory; it looks upon it as a tribute from a body of the most broad-gauged and influential business men in the Mississippi Valley, the Business Men's League of St. Louis.

"To this great organization, as the representative of the people of St. Louis, we wish to present a token of our friendship and good will. It is a floral key—the key to our city, gentlemen—use it not only on Sunday, but every day in the week."

Would Lock Bridge on Sunday.

Mayor Kiel, in response to Thrasher's Sunday suggestion, said that too many St. Louis people went to East St. Louis on Sundays.

"It would please me better if we could lock up the bridge on Sunday and keep our people at home," he said.

"And it would us, too," shouted an East St. Louis man in the audience.

Mayor Kiel declared that the administration would complete the free bridge probably within a year, certainly within two years. He said he realized he had a hard job on his hands, but declared that the bridge must be built and that all obstacles must be overcome.

Mayor Chamberlin of East St. Louis spoke on the necessity of united effort to build up the St. Louis industrial district.

"When St. Louis finds a factory that wants a little cheaper coal than you can give it, a little cheaper land, send it over to East St. Louis and don't let it go to Chicago or Cincinnati. East St. Louis will be glad to have it and our prosperity will help your prosperity. I have often said that St. Louis gets as much good out of our people as we do ourselves."

Trefz was the last speaker. He is a traveling industrial evangelist, sent out by the National Chamber of Commerce to inject "ginger" into business organizations throughout the country. He declared that men, not resources, make cities, and that it is necessary for St. Louis business men to get together and pull together to give St. Louis and its industrial district the place that it should hold in the country.

He told how Boston, which "had been a state of mind for 225 years," recently woke up, organized a strong Chamber of Commerce, and was now making an effective fight for the business of New England and getting it. He discussed the spirit of the business men of Los Angeles and Kansas City, and cited those communities as examples of what united effort could accomplish. The Chamber of Commerce of Cleveland, he declared, made not only Cleveland but also Pittsburg by making possible the transportation of ores from the Duluth mines to Pittsburg for manufacture.

Importance of Play Side.

He admonished the business organizations that while they were taking care of their industries not to overlook their parks, boulevards, playgrounds and public schools. The manufacture of souls of good quality, he declared, was the very human side of the problem confronting the industrial communities.

Through a strong central organization, he said, the business men of St. Louis could make the city what they wished to make it whenever they were willing to pay the price of united effort.

Trefz told several stories that kept his audience laughing. At the conclusion of his speech, President Shapleigh adjourned the meeting, and the League members and their guests were served a buffet luncheon of sandwiches, coffee and buttermilk.

The loving cup was taken by President Thrasher to East St. Louis Friday night. He said that the cup probably would be placed on permanent exhibition in a leading hotel of East St. Louis where it would be seen by visitors to the city, and that it would be exhibited at meetings of all commercial clubs of cities and towns near East St. Louis. Monday night, he said, he would take it to a meeting of the Belleville Commercial Club.

Trophy for Membership Contest.

The cup was offered as a prize by the Post-Dispatch to the winner of the membership contest between the Business Men's League and the East St. Louis Commercial Club. East St. Louis won by getting 1000 members quicker than the Business Men's League could get the 4000 members it desired.

The cup is a masterpiece of the silversmith's art. With the base, it is 30 inches high. It is made of solid silver and is the most massive and beautiful loving cup and awarded as a prize in St. Louis.

The following inscription was engraved on the cup:

"This symbol of good will between St. Louis and East St. Louis was won by the Commercial Club of East St. Louis in a friendly contest for members with the Business Men's League of St. Louis. Donated by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and presented by the Business Men's League at the Coliseum May 30, 1913."

HANDSOME CUP AND A HAPPY OCCASION

IN presenting the Post Dispatch loving cup to the Commercial Club of East St. Louis, President Shapleigh of the Business Men's League said:

"We have here a trophy presented by the Post-Dispatch to the winner of the membership contest. It is a beautiful trophy—one that any organization might be proud to own. It is as artistic and handsome loving cup as I have ever seen. As president of the Business Men's League, it is one of the pleasantest moments of my life to present this cup, on behalf of the Post-Dispatch, to the president of the East St. Louis Commercial Club, Mr. Thrasher."

BLAME NOT FIXED FOR LONG BEACH DISASTER

District Attorney Fredericks Will Ask Grand Jury About Further Inquiries.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 31.—The Los Angeles County grand jury will decide today whether further investigation shall be made of the Long Beach Pier disaster last Saturday in which 37 lost their lives. District Attorney John D. Fredericks said that he would present to the county grand jury when it assembled today the verdict returned by the Coroner's jury at Long Beach and at that time would ask whether it desired to make an investigation for the purpose of fixing the responsibility.

The Coroner's jury held that the disaster was caused by decayed timbers, but did not place the blame.

"SAND FED" STRIKE ENDS

NEW YORK, May 31.—The strike of the distributors of live poultry against the "sand feeding" of chickens, which resulted in an 11 days' accumulation of 225,000 live chickens at the Jersey City and Hoboken stock yards, was broken yesterday. Fifty-six cars full of the chickens were unloaded and removed.

The strike was broken by the action of small butcher shops in ordering chickens direct from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond.

TWO UNDEFEATED SCHOOL TEAMS IN FINAL GAME TODAY

Sigels and Bryan Hills Will Play for Post-Dispatch Pennant at Browns' Park.

The undefeated Sigel school baseball club of South St. Louis will meet the undefeated Bryan Hill school club of North St. Louis at Sportsman's Park Saturday afternoon to settle the championship of the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League.

This contest will bring together the best two public school baseball clubs that St. Louis has produced in many years. The winning club will be entitled to the pennant—an honor as great in St. Louis public school baseball as the end of the National and American League struggle in the bigger baseball world.

Both clubs Saturday morning declared they were in fine form. A crowd of major league proportions is expected to witness the big battle for the baseball honors of the public schools.

Arnold Hauser as Umpire.

Arnold Hauser, the Cardinal shortstop, who is out of the game because of an injured knee, will umpire the contest. He is able to get around sufficiently to umpire, but his knee is not strong enough to permit him to return to the game as a player.

The game will be preceded by the presentation of the banners awarded to the winners of the different divisions of the league. The presentation will be made by Superintendent Ben Blewett of the Public Schools at 2:30 p. m.

The game will start promptly at 2:45 p. m. The banners will be presented to Madison School, of South Division, No. 1, Sigel of Sough Division, No. 2; Marquette of West Division, No. 1; Arlington of West Division, No. 2; Hodgen of Central Division, No. 1; Franklin of Central Division, No. 2; Bryan Hill of North Division, No. 1, and Cote Brilliante of North Division No. 2.

The principals, teachers and welfare associations of the rival schools are taking great interest in the deciding game. The members of the Sigel team will board a special street car at Jefferson and Geyer avenues at 1 p. m., and proceed to the ball park, arriving there at 1:20 p. m.

They will be accompanied by Prof. W. C. Dyer, principal of the Sigel School, his corps of teachers, and many members of the welfare association.

Prof. Witter of the Bryan Hill School, who has coached that school's team, will conduct his players to Sportsman's Park. All the teachers will go with the North St. Louis champions to cheer them on the field.

A squad of police has been detailed to the park by Chief Young to preserve order. Admission will be free.

The members of the two clubs are 14, 15 and 16 years old.

The game will be reported in the sporting editions of the Post-Dispatch by an expert baseball writer, each play being described in detail, just as in the big league games. A full report of the game also will be published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

BODY OF DROWNED MAN RECOVERED IN MERAMEC

Harvey Smith and Companion Thrown Out When Boat Overturns, Latter Escapes.

The body of Harvey Smith, 32 years old, of 4315 Gano avenue, who was drowned Tuesday in the Meramec River near Ten Broek, Mo., was recovered Friday night, after searching parties had dynamited the river at that point three days. He is survived by his wife and three children.

The funeral will be held from the home of his mother, Mrs. Cora Smith, 4352 Gano avenue. He was drowned when riding in a gasoline launch with a companion. The men left a boat club in South St. Louis Tuesday afternoon for a two-day cruise in the Meramec. The boat was overturned by the swift current near a bend in the stream. Smith's companion swam to the shore.

HOMELESS HORSE EATS, BUT FORMER OWNER WON'T PAY

Animal Sold at Auction Is Mysteriously Returned and Becomes Nuisance.

Like a bad penny, the horse that Nathan Bloom of 1024 North Broadway sold for $40 at an auction sale last Thursday, was mysteriously returned to him Friday afternoon, and while the police are searching for the owner, the horse is eating his "head off" in a livery stable.

Bloom told the police he sold the horse to a man who lives in Madison, Ill., at the sale which was held on Blackstone avenue. Although the horse is 19 years old, and its front legs are weak, Bloom said it was easily worth the money.

About 2 o'clock Friday afternoon a man walked in front of Bloom's store and tied the animal to a hitching post. He then disappeared. About 5 o'clock Mrs. Bloom looked at the horse, and recognized it as her husband's late property. She called the police, who took it to Bergesch's stable, at Sixth and Carr streets.

Bloom is inclined to think the buyer of the horse is making him a present of the animal, but Bloom says he does not care for it any more, and believes the police should pay the feed bill if the horse is not claimed.

MRS. DOXEY-WHITNEY UNDERGOES OPERATION

Upon Result Depends Her Appearance to Answer Bigamy Charge at Clayton June 9.

Whether Mrs. Dora Fuller-Doxey-Erder-Whitney will be able to appear in the court at Clayton, June 9, to answer a charge of bigamy, depends upon the outcome of an operation performed on her Saturday morning by Dr. Waldo Briggs and Dr. E. T. Brand at the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital. The operation, begun at 11:30 o'clock, was declared by the physicians to be of a serious nature.

Dr. C. G. Eggers of Clayton attended the operation as a representative of the St. Louis County authorities, and will make a personal report to Prosecuting Attorney Lashly as to the ability of the woman to appear in court on the day the trial is scheduled. Fred C. Whitney, her ranchman husband, of Orofino, Idaho, was at the hospital while the operation was in progress.

EDITOR LAYS DOWN PEN

NEW YORK, May 31.—Robert Underwood Johnson, of long and distinguished career as associate editor and then editor of the Century Magazine following the death of Richard Watson Gilder, the poet, announced today his retirement from the editorship of the magazine.

Mr. Johnson is the permanent secretary of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, succeeding the late Secretary of State John Hay, and is vice-president of the National Institute of Arts and Letters recently incorporated by Congress. He has been the recipient of honorary degrees from Yale and New York universities, and was decorated by France and Italy for his long campaign against literary piracy which ended in the international copyright bill.

MAYOR AT DESK IN SHIRTWAIST, SAYS SEASON IS HERE

Executive Keeps Coat Within Reach, Ready to Don "Uniform" for Women Callers.

The shirtwaist season in St. Louis for men is officially on. It was so proclaimed Saturday by Mayor Kiel, who took off his coat and vest as soon as he reached his office in the city hall. He continued to wear a "boiled" collar but promised that Monday he will "sport" a neat soft collar with wilted effect.

When the thermometer registers 90 degrees or above, residents may lay aside their ironed-out shirts and collars and appear on the streets and in their offices in negligee attire without violating style rules, according to the newest proclamation of the executive.

As a style arbiter the Mayor is gaining a reputation. He recently issued an edict that straw hats may be worn in the city on and after May 30. After many residents had worn straw hats several days—and were not arrested for violating the proclamation—the executive puffed into his office three or four days ago fanning himself with one of the latest style "straws."

The Mayor told visitors Saturday that he believes in comfort rather than style. But he kept his coat and vest within reach. He explained that he expected to greet all women callers in "full uniform."

"I don't like to see suspenders draped over a man's back," the Mayor declared, "and they should be replaced with a belt. With that modification I am for the shirt waist."

HISTORIAN, RELATIVE OF A FAMOUS DOCTOR

MISS LDNA ALINE OSLER.

DR. OSLER'S 'GET RID OF' MEN AT 60, A JOKE, SAYS NIECE

Visitor at Edwardsville Declares He Didn't Think It Would Be Taken Seriously.

Dr. William Osler had a grouch on when he said every man should be chloroformed after he reached the age of 60, according to Miss Edna Aline Osler, niece of the famous physician. She is now at Edwardsville gathering historical data for the Historical Research Society of Philadelphia.

Miss Osler explained the circumstances under which the famous remark was made.

"Uncle was only jesting when he said that," Miss Osler declared to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "He was then at the John Hopkins University. It was one day when things had gone wrong with him; some of his experiments had turned out badly and he himself was not feeling well.

In Disgruntled State.

"A friend had been commiserating him upon his disgruntled state of mind, and uncle remarked sarcastically: 'Oh, a man isn't any use after he's 60 years old. He is just a pest and ought to be chloroformed and quietly gotten rid of.'

"The statement became public and went around the world. There was no end of comment. Uncle never attempted to deny it, but I am sure that he did not think people would put so much importance to a jesting remark. Uncle is now 68 years old and doing the best work he has ever done in his life at Oxford."

Miss Osler, who is still in her early twenties, said that she would trust the judgment of a man 60 years old in anything except "affairs of the heart."

Would Like to Vote.

"There is nothing quite so distressing as a young girl trying to conform to the ideas of some man three or four times as old as she is. But in business I find both men and women beyond sixty doing fine work.

Miss Osler would welcome suffrage, but she said that she is not a suffragete.

"I expect to vote some day and will be very glad to do so," she said. "I would consider casting a ballot a high privilege and one to be the occasion of serious thought. But I do not approve of burning buildings and creating riots. It kills the cause and degrades the women in the eyes of respectable and thinking citizens."

Miss Osler is the daughter of Dr. E. R. Osler. She was born at Galeston, Md., and went to Maryland College. For the last three years she has been doing historical work in many parts of the United States.

MOTOR CYCLE HITS STREET CAR; TWO BROTHERS HURT

One of Riders Is Probably Fatally Injured, Other Is Badly Bruised.

Two brothers were injured, one perhaps fatally, Friday afternoon when their tandem motor cycle collided with a street car on the McKinley line at 6 o'clock at Twelfth and Benton streets.

Albert Miller, 34 years old, of 2721 Whittier street, who was riding on the front seat of the cycle, was dragged about 30 feet before the street car was stopped. His skull was fractured, three ribs on his right side were broken and he was injured internally. Edward Miller, 23, of 1214 Wright street, was thrown clear of the wreck and received several cuts and bruises on the head and chest.

Albert Miller was taken to the city hospital by Harry Faulkner, a Granite City lawyer, who was passing in his automobile. Edward Miller's wounds were dressed at the city dispensary and he was taken home. The accident happened when Edward Miller attempted to turn the motorcycle into Twelfth street from Benton street and crashed into an inbound street car.

"SYLVIA."

UPTON SINCLAIR appears in an entirely new light in "Sylvia," his latest novel. He prefers to write of the tragic and the sordid phases of life and delicacy in handling his subjects hitherto has not been a conspicuous trait of his work. But wandering into the new field of eugenics, we find him teaching a terrible lesson so delicately and so considerately that one has to go back after finishing the book and re-read the first 10 pages to be quite sure that he has understood the author aright.

Then we see that he has all the time been preaching to us with the greatest possible frankness (when we read between the lines) of the great shadow of degeneracy and disease that hangs over society today.

The key to his meaning, the sum and substance of his moral, the shocking consequences of the haphazard system of mating that often brings together the physically unfit, all are revealed in the opening chapter of the story, though we do not suspect this until he have read to the end. Though we know that there can be no hope of a happy ending to the tale after we see the pathetic figure of blind Elaine, who, we are told, has her mother's beauty but not her gayety and is pictured to us as "the incarnation of the tragedy," it is not revealed to us except by inference in the last pages that the affliction that has fallen upon Elaine is the penalty that children pay for the vices and excesses of their ancestors.

The story of Elaine's tragedy begins to dawn upon us, when Harriet, Sylvia's chum, calls upon the girl destined to be Elaine's mother on the eve of Sylvia's mariage to the greatest "catch" in New York. Harriet had been married a little over a year. She had been a splendid specimen of physical womanhood, vigorous and athletic. Her husband was the decadent scion of a famous Southern family. Sylvia, herself about to be sacrificed into a moneyed but loveless marriage on the altar of family need, greets her friend with all the appearance of delight she can assume under the cloud that hangs over her. Harriett tells Sylvia that she has come North for treatment by noted specialists of the metropolis for a "mysterious ailment" that has "baffled" all the doctors back at her home town. Then "Harriet lifted her veil and there was an old woman with a wrinkled skin."

Sylvia's family, like most conventional families, particularly in the South from which Sylvia hails, has looked upon the tremendous sex problems that confront the human race as taboo for a modest young girl though they are of vital import to her future, but the inevitable events of her life have begun to awaken her to their existence and the shocking example of the transformation of the beauteous Harriett into an old woman in a few months warns her that she, too, may stand upon the brink of the same tragedy. So she begins a hurried inquiry into the mystery among those of her folk who ought to tell her and they, even her preacher uncle, whom she expects to be honest with her, if all the others fail, put her off with evasions and suggestions that such suspicions from her are unworthy of a modest young woman.

So Sylvia suppresses her fears, and the story closes with the picture of her marriage to the heir of many millions in a style that even luxury-loving Fifth avenue deems worthy of such an auspicious social event.

We are left to assume the tragedy that came into Sylvia's life but there can be no doubt, from the adroit manner in which the author has set his final scene, that it was like unto the shadow that came into and marred the life of Harriett.

Less delicately done, such a somber and shuddering story would have been disgusting, but Mr. Sinclair has wrought so cleverly that we think not of the grinning skeleton that he strips bare for us but only of the lesson that the story teaches. This is nothing less than an arraignment of the false modesty that moves mothers and fathers to keep from their boys and girls the knowledge of the relations that nature ordained that they should assume and into which these parents would thrust their beloved children in the blind ignorance that would insure failure in any other field of life. Yet we know that it is on the institution of matrimony that the human race is dependent not only for its happiness but for its very existence.

In making Sylvia such a wonderful creature that all men fall down in worship of her, Mr. Sinclair has laid himself open to criticism for lack of artistry. There never was a girl so lovely as that in the eyes of all men, for even such a merely physical aspect as beauty is a matter of taste and loveliness which is a combination of the attributes of physical beauty, spirituality and menjality, is even more dependent upon the personal likes of the one sitting in judgment. Sylvia, idolized by some, might be tolerated only by many. But, perhaps, the author would defend himself against the charge of extravagance by reminding us that the tale is told by an old woman, who naturally believed that Sylvia was as wonderful to all others as to herself.

"Sylvia" is the story of a proud Southern family, and it presents a striking picture of life in a Southern aristocratic home. The family's pride is about all it has left in the end, and it is a pitiable spectacle when this pride is unctuously bartered away, without qualm of conscience, for Douglas van Tuiver's millions. There is, too, a terrible indictment of social caste at Harvard University. Granting that club life there is as snobbish as the author portrays, it is hardly true that the influence of the "Gold Coast" on the student body at large is as demoralizing and as depressing as Mr. Sinclair would lead us to believe. (Winston.)

"THE PHILIPPINE PROBLEM."

HERE is a particularly interesting and useful book at this time when it is likely that legislation looking to the ultimate independence of the Philippines will be attempted by Congress. The author, Frederick Chamberlain, has spent a great deal of time in this vast archipelago and is familiar with its diverse interests and tribes. He presents a thorough statement of the history of our occupancy of the islands in 1898 and tells how we have handled in a commendable way the questions that have arisen from time to time, beginning with Aguinaldo and continuing down to the present, when our principal burden there is educational and sanitary.

We are doing something every year to bring these savage and semi-savage hordes out of the darkness of jungle life onto a plane of civilization that is gradually rising. We also are building up American business, much of the growth in this respect being due to Gov. Cameron Forbes' fine administrative ability. The personnel that represents us there is improving and becoming gradually more proficient in handling the peculiar problems that are arising daily. We are doing there what we have done in Panama in a sanitary way and are driving out fever, malignant malaria and other diseases that are peculiar to the climate.

It probably was never intended by the Creator to be a white man's country; but we are making it as nearly fit for the Caucasian as the natural handicaps will permit.

After reading Mr. Chamberlain's book, one is constrained to admit that whatever may be one's position on the question of holding the Philippines or letting them go on the ground that retention of them without the consent of the peoples and tribes we govern there is un-American, one may fairly be proud of the plane of progress to which we have lifted a benighted and subject land, giving it an era of enlightenment and prosperity that it never would have had without our guidance. Mr. Chamberlain's book merely presents the problem, allowing the reader to reach his own solution of it. (Little-Brown.)

POLITICS AND THE SCHOOL.

"THE SOCIAL CENTER" is a book of 359 pages, the purpose of which as explained by its author is to make the public schools "the common institution which will serve the adult political, recreational and social self-education of the country." The author is Prof. Edward J. Ward of the University of Wisconsin. As he defines the movement he represents, no building except the public schoolhouse will serve its purposes, because its ulterior purpose is to reorganize politics through the public schools. He gives much interesting history of the movement to carry out this purpose, beginning with experiments in Rochester, N. Y., continuing in Wisconsin and extending its field to other states. Opponents of Socialism may dissent from the author but they will find him an enthusiastic and interesting partisan of his political theories. (Appleton.)

"EDUCATIONAL DRAMATICS."

THIS small book by Emma Sheridan Fry, director of the Educational Players, bulges with psychological terms. The paragraphs intelligible to the ordinary reader without a glossary are few. Imagine George M. Cohan or Eva Tanguay contemplating this: "Hooded by Personality, we are shadowed away from the glare of the All, and we settle here to our task of control, inside and out, without consciously relating the task of Now to the task of Eternity. But the Eternal Urge is behind us. The only real death is the stoppage of that Eternal Urge." The only thing lacking for the complete obfuscation of the reader is an introduction by Henry James. (Moffatt-Yard.)

"TWO SHALL BE BORN."

THE poetic dictum that "two souls shall be born, "the whole wide world apart" and yet come together under the irresistible attraction of affinity, is the inspiration for Theodore Goodridge Roberts' newest story called "Two Shall Be Born." It tells how David Westly, an American millionaire, and Dorothy Gordon, a London girl, each representing a wholly different phase of life, are thrown together through that mysterious decree of fate that rules the destinies of men and women. Capt. Walter Joice, late of the Yorkshire Light Infantry, is also a suitor for Dorothy's hand. There are other characters worth while, but these are the principal figures in the story. Ultimately, the whole action shifts with the chief actors to the Canadian Northwest, and the story grows immensely better with the change, for Mr. Roberts knows that background well and the winter in the forest is made splendidly real.

However, "Two Shall Be Born" is far from being in Roberts' best vein. It is fragmentary and there are times when his treatment of his subject in hand descends to indifference. (Cassell.)

LA FOLLETTE'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

"A PERSONAL NARRATIVE OF POLITICAL EXPERIENCES," which Robert M. La Follette, the fighting Wisconsin Senator, wrote originally for a magazine, has been issued in book form. The Senator's enemies have charged him with inordinate vanity in presuming to publish his autobiography while he is still among the living, but he effectually justifies this by a statement in his preface that his sole aim is to aid the reform movement that still is in its early stages. His hope is that every line will cheer the fighters for the cause of progressive government. It is, indeed, a very modest book, totally devoid of direct self-laudation. As everybody knows, the Senator has traveled a thorny path to high position; he has had to fight for every inch of ground that he has gained but Senator La Follette has merged his own identity in his cause in telling of his achievements. His book ought to be an inspiration to any young man who aspires to a career of public service; not alone an inspiration, but a guide, a philosopher and a friend.

PICTURE REVIEW

"Out of the Ashes," by Ethel Watts Mumford. (Moffatt-Yard.)

UNEXPECTED AFFINITIES.

THE "Unexpected Affinities" that Susan Taber tells about are not what they sound like. They are not unexpected and they are not affinities to any very startling extent. Interest in a rather attenuated story is sustained fairly well through three-quarters of its length in the expectation of the unexpected that is promised by the title. By the time the reader discovers that there are not going to be any unexpected affinities, the others have become tiresome and one is tempted to skip over to the last pages and confirm the expected happy adjustment and let it go at that.

The characters, according to the publisher's announcement, are "such people as you meet anywhere about you." Most of them one would not care to meet twice. The principal ones are Herbert Norton, morose and misanthropic because he has too much money; Edward Norton, his cousin, a cad who nags and neglects his wife execrably; Rosalie, the wife, who is a ninny, and Alice Hervey, Rosalie's sister, who has an ingrown disposition and takes herself too seriously. Rosalie flirts with Herbert to punish her husband, and Herbert flirts with Rosalie because he is so awfully rich that he doesn't know what else to do. Alice sets herself the task of saving Rosalie from the consequences of her silliness and falls in love with Herbert in spite of her hearty detestation of his emptiness and selfishness. But nothing ever really happens. Something is always just going to happen, but instead of something happening, Edward nags and neglects his wife some more and Rosalie again invites Herbert to dinner and Alice again calls her down for acting that way. By and by, after a separation and a trying experience, Rosalie concludes that a husband who is not unfaithful and does not beat her is about as much as a woman should expect and everything winds up all right for everybody except a poor artist who loves Alice in vain. In spite of considerable futility, which at times becomes exasperating, and a lack of character discernment, the narrative runs along in a quietly entertaining way to a conventional ending. (Duffield.)

HOW TO BECOME A CITIZEN.

NATHANIEL C. FOWLER JR. who has written several helpful books, has compiled a book of needed information for the prospective citizen. In "How to Become a Citizen," the reader finds not only the information which will help in obtaining naturalization, but quite a bit of United States history and some legal information. There is a good deal of information in the book needed by the average man, whether he be a natural-born citizen or a naturalized one. The specific information about naturalization also appears in Italian, Yiddish, German and French. (Sully-Kleinteich.)

SPELL-BINDING IN PROSE.

IN an essay, what you say does not matter nearly so much as how you say it. That is, an essay must be a work of art. In a work of art, whether the material is clay or marble, it is the art that counts. This is why James Huneker writes essays and publishes them in a collection which he calls "The Pathos of Distance, a Book of a Thousand and One Moments." The title has no special application to the materials of the essays, or at least to not more than one of them. The materials make no particular difference, but the way Mr. Huneker applies art to the materials is a wonder. He works on everything from George Moore's novels and Wagner's music to the Celtic awakening, Bergson's philosophy and Cubist art. He knows all the magnates of Queer street in Paris, Berlin, London and New York as friend to friend. When he writes of them, they seem to be the most wonderful and important people on earth. Such is the spell of art and Huneker knows how to cast it. The only objection to his art, is that when he drags the skeletons from Queer street closets and anatomizes them for us, they turn out to be as commonplace as the kind which respectability keeps decently concealed, because, among other reasons, they are not artistic. When Mr. Huneker realizes this, the spells he knows how to cast as an essayist may become enchanting even when they are most delusive. (Scribner.)

HARMONY OF PLANT LIFE.

THE exterior of a plant is wonderful enough when closely observed, but many more marvels are revealed when we come to examine, with the microscope, test tube and other apparatus the interior of any plant. Such study becomes so fascinating that many men have devoted their lives to it without exhausting its secrets. Some of the results of this study are given by William F. Ganong in his book, "The Living Plant; a Description and Interpretation of Its Functions and Structure," which is the latest volume in the American Nature Series.

Among other things, one learns that not only the vegetable world, but the animal world, including man, is indebted to the action of light for the chemical process which plants use, in their leaves and other organs, to produce the various food substances. The color green is not an accidental color nor one merely adapted to human eyes and nerves. There is a definite substance, chlorophyll, which is present in all green vegetation, and which, next to protoplasm, is the most wonder-working substance known. For this chlorophyll, by making use of certain rays of light, manufactures the various sugars, starches and other chemical substances that cause vegetation to be nutritious to animals and man. One product—starch—is made by chlorophyll, which the chemist has never been able to copy by synthesis, though he obtains it readily enough after the plant has stored it up.

Our young people, since the advent of nature study and the microscope in the schools, are fortunate if they can devote some time to plant structure, because it is full of beautiful forms. Exteriors are graceful and pleasing, while sections of interiors vie with the most exquisite laces and carpets in variety and delicacy of tracing. Finally, plant chemistry offers opportunity to young people for equipping themselves for a useful occupation, what is known as the organic branch of chemistry employing many experts in the industries and arts. A PEEP INTO TOMORROW!

The Point of View of the Housework Girl

Everyone knows that the biggest and most difficult problem of domestic life today is that of household help. Why should a girl prefer to work in a factory for $5 a week, pay car fare, board and midday lunches, when she might earn as much and have none of those expenses working in some home, helping a wife and mother with the housework? The real, fundamental reasons will be explained in the Sunday Post-Dispatch tomorrow by one who has delved deeply into the question.

The Perfection of Grace Shown by St. Louis Girls

An exceptionally beautiful page in the Picture Section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch tomorrow is made up of snapshots taken at the McMillan day festivities, Washington University, showing girl students in open-air dances. Three other pages of interesting photographs collected from the four points of the compass, and every one worth looking at.

Theodore Roosevelt's Own Story of His Life

"My first days in the Legislature," relates the Colonel, in the installment printed in the Sunday Post-Dispatch tomorrow, "were like those of a boy in a strange school. My fellow legislators and I eyed one another with mutual distrust."—Published by special arrangement with The Outlook, of which Col. Roosevelt is contributing editor.

See him solve the great trunk mystery in the Funny Side Section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch tomorrow. And, then, of course, there's "The Kids Next Door;" "The Newlyweds;" "Mr. Hubby;" "Buddy's Baby Sister" and "Tenderfoot Tim." Lots of laughs and chuckles in every one of 'em.

BIG BENEFIT TO SAVE THE BABIES NOTABLE TRIUMPH

Pupils of Shepherd School of Dancing Give Fine Performance to Crowded House.

CLEVER YOUNG COMPANY

Attractive Program So Admirably Presented as to Constitute Memorable Achievement.

The pupils of the Shepherd School of Dancing, under the personal direction of Miss Viva L. Shepherd, gave a beautiful performance at the Mikado Theater on Friday night for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund to save the tenement babies.

An audience that filled the pretty playhouse to the doors attended and greatly enjoyed this performance. In addition to the 50 children who took part in the entertainment, the youthful element also predominated in the audience, and the great living picture presented when the helpful offering was under full headway became attractive far out of the ordinary.

The 50 young dancers and singers, and the big audience so largely composed of children, were splendidly aiding the fund that saves the little ones of the poor from sickness and death during the hot summer months. And, quite properly, the happiness that comes from unselfish service in behalf of others seemed to make itself felt in every heart.

The clever juvenile company composed of Miss Shepherd's pupils were as graceful and sweet-toned a troupe of young folks as one could wish to see and hear. They acquitted themselves admirably.

So skilfully arranged and well balanced was the program of entertainment and so capable the work of all those taking part that it would not be fair to single out any individuals for special distinction. The credit for a most delightful performance belongs to all.

An Attractive Program.

The program in full was:

Part I—Kindergarten class: Song, "Happy Children," Charlotte Bruns, Carl Beckers, Virginia Eggert, Robert McGilliway, Helene Higgins, Francis S. Noyes, Eleanor Olliges, Frederick Skinner, Florence Shelton, Virginia Brauer, Dorothy Craig, Willa Eggert, Helen Hirschfield, James B. Higgins, Lucille O'Malley, Lucille Papin, Esther Stampfer, Marie Webb; waltz, "Mignon," Esther Stampfer; song, "Little Mischief," Dorothy Craig; Manhattan, Virginia Eggert; Sailors' Hornpipe, Carl Beckers; song, "Midnight Choo-Choo," Helene Higgins and Francis Noyes; Spanish Dance, Helen Hirschfield; Gavotte, Lucille O'Malley and Florence Shelton; Minuette, Marie Webb, Esther Stampfer, Helene Higgins, Lucille Papin, Robert McGilliway, Francis Noyes, James Higgins, Frederick Skinner; Butterfly, Willa Eggert; Folly, Virginia Brauer; Bat Dance, Eleanor Olliges; Scarf Dance, Helene Higgins; song, "You Can't Guess," Lucille Papin; Cupid, Charlotte Brune; song, Robert McGilliway; Jig, class.

Part 2. "Naila, Viva L. Shepherd; Polish dance, Ruth Hausman and Marion Heisler; song, "Melodies," Alice Burke; Dutch dance, Angela and Catherine Smith, Dorothy Craig, Lucille Papin, Marie Webb, Virginia Brauer, Lucille O'Malley, Eleanor Olliges, Esther Stampfer, Helene Higgins, Helen Hirschfield, Willa Eggert, Frederick Skinner, Robert McGilliway, Francis Noyes, Virginia Eggert, Carl Beckers, Florence Shelton, Charlotte Brune, James Higgins, John Flood, Ruth Bullo; dance, Walter Craig; "Rapinta," Kathryn Barker; Highland Fling, Virginia Eggert, Angela Smith, Edita Doyon, Mary Shelton, Alice Wightman, Melba Sporleder, Laura Bowen Helen Sprague, Ralph Skinner, John Flood, Della Bage, Ruth Sanner, Walter Craig, Russell Buhrman, Blaine McGilliway, Elsie Dale; Valse Blue, Edna Barker; Andante, Lilies Guinea; song, "Apple Blossom Time," Melba Schmidt and Walter Craig, Mary Shelton, Lorraine Irwin, Delores Waddack, Ruth Bullo, Evelyn Pauley, Kathryn Barker, Dorothy Skinner, Frances Curran, Elsie Dale, Clara Skinner, Edith Doyon, Cathryn Smith, Angela Smith, Virginia Eggert, Frances Haweth, Margaret White, Irene Close; Greek Arrow Dance, Blaine McGilliway; Allegretto, Ruth Sanner; song, "Uncle Joe," Kathryn Barker; Jockey Dance, John Flood.

Part 3. "Spring Song," Lorraine Irwin; Castanet, Della Bage; song, "Floating Down the River," Mary Selton; Czibulka, Evelyn Pauley and Ralph Skinner; toe dance, Melba Schmidt; "La Senorita," Edith Doyon; "La Grace," Clara Skinner; Quick Time, Della Bage, Marion Heisler, Ruth Sanner, Alice Burke, Helen Sprague, Ruth Hausman, Lilies Guinea, Florence Street; Tango, Mary Shelton and Walter Craig; song, "I'll Keep My Eye on You," Lorraine Irwin; Flower Dance, Melba Sporleder; song, "That's How I Need You," Russell Buhrman, Dolores Waddack, Blaine McGilliway, Melba Schmidt, Frances Curran, Margaret White; skirt dance, Virginia Eggert, Evelyn Pauley, Kathryn Barker, Lorraine Irwin, Clara Skinner, Angela Smith, Catherine Smith, Edith Doyon, Alice Wightman, Laura Bowen; Maori Tango, Edna Barker, Viva Shepherd, Mary Green, Charles Gash, Fred Rengers, Vincent Newman; finale, all the classes.

The stage settings were pleasingly picturesque and the costumes worn by the children were brilliantly colorful and in keeping with the themes of the various dances and song numbers presented. The house rang almost continually with applause, and the triumph of the completed performance was such as to make the entertainment memorable much above the average.

SIX CHILDREN WHO TOOK PART IN BIG PURE MILK FUND BENEFIT

BABY LIVES IMPERILED BY SUDDEN HEAT WAVE

The three-days' heat wave, so suddenly sweeping over the city like a stifling blast from some torrid desert, swiftly has imperiled the lives of the little ones of the poor in the crowded tenement districts.

The demand upon the Pure Milk Commission is instant and imperative. The 15 pure milk stations maintained by the Commission in various congested quarters of the city are crowded with mothers and their babies, the latter needing help at once.

The pure milk provided for the tenement babies at these stations is all that keeps them alive during such a crisis as has now so unexpectedly developed. It gives the little tots the strength with which to survive the heat.

The Pure Milk Commission is doing its best to meet the sudden big demand.

But money is needed for this great and instantly necessary service, and the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission is beginning this season's work almost without a dollar in its treasury.

A shortage of funds means the death of many tenement babies whose lives otherwise surely would be saved.

Won't you help to prevent these piteous tragedies of the tenements?

The time to help is right now.

Save the babies!

JEFFERSON CITY, May 31.—Two coaches of Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 21 were derailed near Scott's Station, seven miles west of here, but the train was running slowly and none of the passengers on trainmen was injured. The accident was caused by the falling of a brakebeam.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER HURT IN BOARDING CAR

Elder Woman Is Probably Seriously Injured and Younger Sustains Bruises.

Mrs. Dora Stringer, 36 years old, of 2825 Locust street, was probably seriously injured Saturday morning when she fell from an Olive street car she tried to board at Leffingwell avenue. With her daughter, Laura, 12, Mrs. Stringer started downtown to buy the girl a new bonnet and a white dress.

The car started as Mrs. Stringer got on the first step. As she fell Laura tried to catch her and she also was knocked down. Laura accompanied her mother to the city hospital, where it was found Mrs. Springer was suffering from a probably fractured skull and numerous bruises. Laura was also bruised in the fall.

College Course Costs $4216.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 31.—The average cost of the college course of the 300 seniors who will be graduated from Princeton University next month is $4216, according to the statistics of the class published today. The minimum expense was $800, as opposed to a maximum of $10,000.

CRAMPS, HEADACHE, BACKACHE,

Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I was always tired and weak and my housework was a drag. I had cramps so bad that I would have to lie down, also a distressed feeling in lower part of back, and headache. I had other organic troubles.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier have helped me wonderfully. I don't have those pains any more and am all right now. There are a great many women here who take your remedies and I have told others what they have done for me."—Mrs. Chas. McKinnon, 1013 N. 5th st., W., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

There are probably hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over 30 years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering. If you are sick and need such a medicine, why don't you try it?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CHASES BURGLAR IN NIGHT CLOTHES; GETS LOOT BACK

Carondelet Resident Races Two Blocks After Negro Who Makes Escape.

It was a case of George having to do it, and George did, when George Frickel of 212 West Stein street chased a negro burglar two blocks at 1:15 a. m. Saturday and made such headway that the negro dropped his loot. Frickel paused to recover the articles and the burglar escaped.

Two other homes beside that of the Frickels were looted in Carondelet during the night and the police think the man chased by Frickel committed all the burglaries. The home of Mrs. Sadie Hall, 5707 Michigan avenue, was entered during the absence of herself and daughter, May, and jewelry worth $500 taken. From the home of John Siebert, 7716 South Broadway, a purse containing $10 and some trinkets was taken.

Intruder Wakes Woman.

Mrs. Kate Frickel awoke to find the burglar in her room. She said he was a negro about 26 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, and fairly well dressed. He had gathered up Mrs. Frickel's watch, worth $30, and a black handbag when Mrs. Frickel awoke. For just a moment she observed the prowler and then she called to her husband. The negro started away. "Hurry, George; hurry," called Mrs. Frickel.

Frickel was asleep in an adjoining room. He was out of bed before the burglar had left the apartment of his wife, and as the negro ran for the door Frickel was in pursuit.

Frickel did not stop for shoes or clothes. When the negro went out the rear door Frickel followed. They raced through the yard and down the alley. After a run of a block and a half the negro dropped the watch and bag. Frickel was within 20 yards of the prowler at that time. He stopped to pick up his property. When he was ready to resume the pursuit the burglar was out of sight. Police were called, but were unable to get a line on the thief.

Hall Home Robbed.

At the Hall home the burglar broke a lock off the basement door and then forced a door leading up to the living rooms. He obtained a gold watch worth $125, diamond ring valued at $175, two rings worth $125 and other baubles worth $75. All belonged to Miss Hall, who is away on a visit. Mrs. Hall discovered the burglary when she returned home at 9 p. m.

At the Siebert home the family was not awakened. John Miller, a guest, told the police of the robbery at 5 a. m. Saturday. The money stolen was his.

BOYS HOLD UP 15 MEN

Seventeen-Year-Old Youths Caught Running Away.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Three boys under 17 years of age are under arrest today as bandits who, with pistols in hand, invaded the Trojan Athletic Club uptown last night and lined up 15 young men for robbery. Several of the men who refused to hold up their hands were punched in the face. The pistols kept them from punching back.

In all the young bandits got nearly $300 worth of jewelry and money. They had backed out of the club rooms to dart away when an alarm was sounded and the police fell upon them.

DENIES HITCHCOCK MADE POSTOFFICE SUPPORT ITSELF

Burleson Statement Says Efficiency Was Sacrificed to False Economy.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—In the Postoffice Department statement of fiscal conditions, just issued by Postmaster-General Burleson, it is stated that "the Postoffice Department did not attain a condition of self-support during the administration of Postmaster-General Hitchcock, notwithstanding the widely advertised announcement to that effect, although an apparent surplus was attained by unjustifiable methods of bookkeeping.

"The general morale and efficiency of the postal service were sacrificed to a ruthlessly enforced policy of false economy for the sole purpose of presenting a showing of self-maintenance; and after the attainment of this end, just before the inauguration of the new administration, the policy was reversed. Long-standing vacancies were filled and postponed promotions made; commitments to fixed charges for long terms were assumed in such a way as to saddle the new administration with the greatly increased expense during months, if not years, to come.

Committee's Survey.

"These are the important points in the report of a committee of postoffice officers which has made a minute 'survey' of the Department's condition.

"The substance of the claim of the Hitchcock administration was that a deficiency of approximately $17,500,000 in 1909 had been entirely eliminated, and that a surplus of over $200,000 was attained for the fiscal year 1911. The reports of the 'survey' are declared to show, on the contrary, that at no time has there been a legitimate surplus in the postal revenues since the fiscal year 1883, and that instead of a surplus of approximately $219,000 in 1911, there was, in fact, an actual deficiency of considerably more than three-quarters of a million dollars.

"The all-absorbing program of the last administration was the placing of the Postoffice Department on a paying basis," says the report. "The policies pursued in the effort to succeed at this plan were overworked and resulted in defective administration and just criticism on the part of the public.

Efficiency and Economy.

"'That efficiency and economy should be substituted for wastefulness and extravagance needs no argument, but the postal service affects so vitally the interests of the entire population of the country that economy which means a curtailment of postal facilities operates as a check to the social and industrial progress of the country. The people are entitled to the best facilities administered in the most efficient manner. That the facilities furnished during the last four years were not the best is clearly established by the facts.'"

The report further states in regard to the Hitchcock policy of economy that "It is assumed by the Committee that the stress laid upon this matter induced many postmasters to exercise drastic economy at the expense of the service. The result has undoubtedly justified such complaints of imperfect and unsatisfactory service as have been received recently from New York, Philadelphia and elsewhere."

NEW ST. PAUL'S OPENING

WOMAN FALLS 15 FEET THROUGH SKYLIGHT

Victim of Accident Is Badly Hurt When She Crashes Into Busy Store.

Mrs. Mary O'Neil, 25 years old, crashed through a skylight while placing a screen in the bathroom window at her home, 916A Pendleton avenue, Friday afternoon, and fell 15 feet into the grocery store below. Her left wrist was broken, she was injured internally, and she received several cuts from the broken glass.

She stepped on the skylight at 7:30 p. m., when she reached up to put in the screen. Her weight caused the entire section to give way. Customers in the store, who had run out, believing the building was collapsing, found Mrs. O'Neil unconscious on the floor when they returned.

WOMEN BARKERS ENLIVEN CHERRY CARNIVAL TODAY

Society Matrons Trying for Record Entertainment to Aid Children's Hospital.

Society matrons are making change quickly and correctly today as they sit in the cashiers' cages at the concessions at the Cherry Carnival in Forest Park Highlands. No advance in the price of admission is countenanced, and no "mistakes" in making change are made in the name of charity.

The women declared they would set a record for giving the public its money's worth in entertainment for a charitable purpose. The proceeds will be donated to the maintenance of the St. Louis Children's Hospital. The admission to the park is 10 cents, and the smiles of the women at the gates make the visitors feel that the dime has opened the way to a dollar's worth of entertainment in watching the women "barkers" urging them to go into the various concessions at regular prices.

Three Hundred Babies.

Three hundred babies were in line for inspection in the perfect baby contest in the theater this afternoon. The prizes, silver mugs and diplomas, will be awarded at 5 o'clock.

McNair Ilgenfritz will preside at the piano, the very latest dance creations will be demonstrated by Miss Alice Martin, and society belles will take part in the singing and dancing at the cabaret dinner at 7 o'clock at Highlands Inn.

Swimming exhibitions given in the afternoon by Y. M. C. A. teams in the swimming pool will be repeated tonight from 8 to 9:30. The pool will be open to the public before and after these exhibitions.

All of the regular concessions are in charge of the women and many special features have been added.

MOTOR CYCLIST BADLY INJURED IN COLLISION

Wheelman Loses Control and Runs Into Auto Breaking Arm and Shoulder.

Harry Burgdorf, 2160 Salisbury street, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by George Cooper, an employe of the Moon Motor Car Co., on the Lemay Ferry road near the Meramec River. His right arm and shoulder were crushed and he was knocked unconscious. He was taken home by Cooper after his injuries had been dressed by a physician.

Burgdorf lost control of his machine for a moment and it crashed into the auto, which was being "tried out" and was occupied only by the driver. The motor cycle was demolished.

KITE FLYING AND ROLLER SKATING BARRED ON STREET

Police Chief Says City Ordinance Will Be Enforced for Protection of Children.

Following the deaths of James Cullen Jr., 11 years old, who was electrocuted while trying to lift a kite from electric wires, and Paul Piepenschneider, 12, who was killed by an ice wagon while skating in the street on roller skates, Police Chief Young Saturday sent a special order to Captains of all districts directing them to see that the law prohibiting the flying of kites on the streets and alleys, and roller skating on the streets be strictly enforced.

The Chief declared he does not desire to interfere with the innocent amusement of children, and believes they should be allowed to enjoy themselves as much as possible, but feels that the police must protect them by eliminating dangerous pastimes.

The city ordinances prohibit the flying of kites on streets and alleys, Chief Young said, and do not allowed roller skating on the streets. Kites may be flown from lots or vacant ground. Boys often encroach on the streets, frightening horses, endangering life and themselves getting in the danger zone.

The law permits children to skate on roller skates on the sidewalks, he said, but it seems that the children will not keep off the streets

"We expect the parents to aid the police in enforcing these orders," he said, "and if they will not help to keep the youngsters off the streets we will be forced as a matter of self-protection to arrest the children."

BOY KILLED IN WRECK

One Fatality and Many Injuries Result From Stolen Ride.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 31.—As the result of a lark in boarding a Clover Leaf freight train to ride to the neighboring town of Mellott, Cyril Glover, son of City Marshal John Glover of Veedersburg, is dead, and seven of his companions were slightly hurt, when a car in which they were riding was wrecked with all others shortly after leaving Veedersburg.

None of the boys is over 16.

AFTER FIVE YEARS

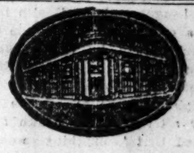

Winthrop Child Was Restored to Health by Vinol.

"Five years ago our little girl had a severe attack of diphtheria which left her subject to bronchitis and stomach trouble. She has been almost constantly under medical treatment. I have also tried two or three remedies containing cod liver oil but found her stomach rebelled against the oil. Reading your description of Vinol I decided to try it and did so with most astonishing results. I cannot begin to tell you how she has improved because you do not know what a little sufferer she was for five years. She has gained ten pounds since she commenced to take Vinol, and the story of what Vinol has done for her is only half told in this letter." Mrs. Adelaide Mulloy, Winthrop, Mass.

Vinol contains all the healing curative properties of cod liver oil, without the oil and tonic iron added. That is why it helped this little girl after other remedies had failed.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

FOUL ODORS A MENACE TO HEALTH.

The announcement in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, that the Civic League and the Health Department will start a crusade to put a stop to the vile odors spread abroad by the packing houses and rendering plants in the West End residence district, should be followed by effective action. Similar complaints have been made in years past, and year after year the health authorities have stated that "something would be done." The nuisance has remained unabated, and with the growth of the plants causing it, it must inevitably grow worse.

Foul odors are not merely disgusting and nauseating. They are an actual menace to health in the case of persons not equipped with iron nerves. Whatever depresses the vitality opens the way to disease. And a sensitive person constantly nauseated by the presence of foul smells cannot fail to lose vital power.

The Post-Dispatch calls upon Health Commissioner Starkloff, President Edward Tilden of the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision Co., President Gustave Bischoff of the St. Louis Independent Packing Co. and the other officers and managers of these companies, to abolish the odors. Unless this is done promptly, we shall demand that the offending plants be banished from the city.

Nothing else than a long cultivated taste in beers can be indicated by the Colonel's opinion of Milwaukee brews.

A SMART DIVORCE SUIT.

Plaintiffs who wish to be in the mode will note the description of the divorce suit worn by the plaintiff in the cause celebre now pending in New York—a very smart frock.

"A close-fitting tailor-made habit of blue, cut low at the neck, and relieved by white lace; with hat of black straw adorned with a score of yellow-tinged aigrettes."

To our mind a still more appropriate costume would consist of somber sackcloth and ashes trimmed with some yellow regrets.

A point of dissimilarity is that the Kaiser always laughed when anybody charged him with katzenjammer.

THE MAN WITH THE HOE.

Has the man with the hoe no right to lay down the hoe sometimes when he doesn't feel like hoeing? Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no respite for the weary workhouse prisoner? We would be less than human did we fail to pity the sorrows of poor Ed Stang, who was stung, as it were, by a workhouse guard on Chesley Island the other day because he threw down his hoe in the middle of a sultry afternoon, and said he'd be—something or other appropriate to the occasion—if he'd hoe another lick! * * * And what happened? A guard punched him in the jaw and they gently bore him away to the hospital, and tenderly deposited him in the down-and-out ward.

All of us are prone to lay down the hoe at times, especially in the long hot afternoons. It is pleasanter to pick up the golf stick. Or there may be other calls. Who has not felt with the darkey cotton-picker, who threw down his basket and flung his arms towards heaven with the prayer, "Oh, Lawd, de sun am so hot and de cotton am so dry dat dis here nigger feels dat he's got a pow'ful call to preach!"

But, brethren, we can't all quit and go to preaching. It is the inexorable rule that most of us must hoe, or pick cotton, or wool gather to some purpose or other, the whole day long. The condition is universal, pictured in the homely ditty:

"Way down yander in Jaybo town
The men-folks wuk till the sun goes down."

Yes, we must keep on till the long day is done, and only in the twilight of life may we, with old Uncle Ned, lay down the shovel and the hoe and hang up the fiddle and the bow. We work not only for accomplishment, but for example and discipline. If one quits nine others will follow, just nine more prisoners threw down their hoes after Ed Stang did at Chesley Island. We work for a variety of reasons and necessities—among them [illegible] that if we give up the world will rise up [illegible] us a knockout punch in the jaw. Lycurgus, this world is nothing but a great big [illegible]. We are all prisoners. Let us work [illegible] as best we may, and whistle while [illegible].

RUINOUS RAILROAD FINANCE.

Payment of unearned stock dividends, overambitious schemes of property extension, the acquisition of a number of unprofitable small roads and financing through the sale of bonds at ruinous interest charges—these are among the accepted causes of the Frisco System's collapse. But there are others.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, the Frisco, after the payment of operating expenses and fixed charges, had a net balance of $177,399. Despite this precarious surplus, the directors voted the usual 4 per cent dividend on the first preferred shares, which amounted to $199,742, leaving a total deficit of $22,343. The stock then sold at $60 a share. Today the same issue is quoted at $6. The question naturally is suggested whether the "insiders" or the "outsiders" got out at the top figures.

The case of the Frisco is typical of the combination of extravagant financing to be found among other leading American roads. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, for example, closed the last fiscal year with a deficit of $5,141,547, because the directors insisted on paying an unearned common stock dividend of $7,000,000. In the same year Illinois Central showed a net balance of $3,466,448, or 3.17 per cent, available for dividends.

This was less by $4,254,733 the amount necessary to pay a 7 per cent dividend on the common stock. Did the management suspend or reduce the dividend to conserve the railroad's resources? Not at all. A total stock dividend of $7,650,720 was disbursed, and a deficit of $4,245,753 charged up to the company.

The Chicago & Alton, during 1910 and 1911, cut several dividend melons which had not been earned. Today it is barely able to pay interest on its bonded debt, and its stock is selling at almost nothing.

Railroad presidents are quick to ascribe their troubles to causes over which they allege they have no control. Some of them are blaming the money market and tariff legislation. They are asking the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to raise railroad rates. Wouldn't they stand a better chance of public support if they stopped the destructive practice of paying dividends out of deficits—if they refrained from rotten finance?

There was a time when the interests elected so many of their own representatives to Congress that lobbyists had only perfunctory duties to perform. Now, when those representatives are confined largely to the third house, is a particularly seasonable time for a lobby investigation.

IS INDUSTRY A HOG TROUGH?

The suggestion of "A Breadwinner," in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, that girls who want a job should be compelled to get a certificate showing that they are in need of work, is based on the false supposition that modern industry is a hog trough and is not unlimited opportunity. It takes for granted that the trough has certain fixed dimensions, and that the hogs showing any signs of being well fed should be forced away from it by constituted authority, to make places for hogs that are manifestly hungry.

But who is to determine whether or not a worker needs a job? Who is to be given this arbitrary, tyrannical power of saying to one worker: "You have enough and to spare; you don't need new clothing, or theater tickets, or books, or trips to the country?"

From the broad point of view there is and must be unlimited opportunity in modern industry. It must be admitted, however, that thousands find it extremely difficult to discover that opportunity. And the fault is usually due to ignorance. There is a wide field for usefulness on the part of public labor bureaus, in investigating what fields of labor are overcrowded and what are in need of help. Statistics might be published from time to time on these points, and workers given wise advice as to where to concentrate their efforts.

But the fundamental problem is that of independent opportunity for access to the country's resources.

Romance and poetry say that the hair of persons under mental strain may turn white in a few hours. Science has denied it. The case of Train Dispatcher Frank A. [illegible]oach at Sedalia gives an opportunity to settle the issue authoritatively. It ought to be easy to determine what the color of his hair was before his carelessness caused the recent accident at California, Mo., and still easier to determine if it has since become gray.

THE LIBEL AS TO "CUSSING."

So far, the case of the plaintiff at Marquette has been painfully weak on the swear words. The testimony as to white wines and brandy and mixed drinks and unpalatable, unconsumable Milwaukee brands of beer and high balls has been full and explicit. The denials as to the cussing have been faltering and unconvincing. Even Jake Riis evasively dismissed the subject with the cryptic remark that the Colonel is a gentleman. Did he mean to intimate that Uncle Joe Cannon is no gentleman?

An impression already created and requiring unimpeachable evidence for its removal is that the proportion of strong verbs may have been greater than the proportion of strong waters in the glass of milk; that the use of red language was in excess of the use of red wine; that high-flavored combinations of English ran considerably higher than the 12 times a year for mint juleps from the White House mint bed.

The slander as to the diction of a man whose Chautauquan abstemiousness in language is widely recognized is even more damaging than the slander as to his beverages. The Colonel's lawyers should make the vindication as complete on the one outrageous allegation in the bill of complaint as on the other.

No employes suffer as much from the lack of consideration of employers as domestic servants, declares a St. Louis social settlement worker. The Wage Inquiry Committee can perhaps find no line of investigation more valuable than one that would bring out all the facts.

Why such secrecy was observed in the preliminaries to appointing the receivers will be something to devote attention to when the Frisco investigation comes.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Sunday Closing Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What is the result of the Sunday closing for the groceries? In every district you can see how the dairy branches have their hands full selling milk, eggs, bread, cakes and some canned goods. What was distributed among so many small grocery keepers, which helped them to make their poor living, now goes to special hands only. Now comes the second act. You are going to close all dry goods, notions, shoes and clothing stores on Sunday? Who will profit by it? The big stores again. This is only the work and greedy manipulation of the big fish to swallow up the small ones. Every man and woman, especially the working class, instead of looking around on Sunday to find in a neighborly sort what little thing they need, when it will be closed, they will try their best to buy it in the big stores on Saturday evening and the small store keeper will only feel hungry on Sunday.

A clerk says that fair-minded people have to sustain closing law to give him his rest. Show me a small storekeeper who employs clerks. He is happy enough that he can clerk by himself to find only his meager bread and butter in such hard times. Therefore, I think, that fair-minded and honest thinking people ought to prevent this wrong, which will ruin many poor people.

A STEADY READER OF YOUR NOBLE PAPER.

Helping the Federation of Commercial Clubs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I want to thank you very sincerely for the Federation of Commercial Clubs of Missouri for postponing the close of the contest for the Ten Best Reasons Why People Should Come to Missouri, until June 30. We have already begun to do all that we can do to make the best out of this generous offer. I hope that you will see an improvement along this line.

Complete the Fairground Swimming Pool.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

With the coming of warm weather comes the desire to "go swimmin'" and up in our end of town we have been looking with eagerness for the opening of the Fairground Park pool, and bless you, just while our hopes were at the highest, after the small boy and the big ones, too, had inspected the place over and over again, and had just about figured out the proper place to dive from, our cherished hopes and dreams of a "swim" were knocked into a "cocked hat" by our cruel "city fathers" when they struck the item from the appropriation bill. Therefore there is gloom among us of the North End, and we wonder why, was it really necessary or was it done to discipline somebody?

I will venture the assertion that if our civic affairs were run on strictly business plans, if the merit system prevailed in our departments, it would not be necessary to increase our taxes to pay salaries, and money would be available for such beneficent public institutions as the swimming pool. In other words the salary list is entirely too long for the work done. Now can't we have a supplemental appropriation for our long-looked-for and much-hoped-for swimming pool? Will you not urge it upon the "powers that be," and I assure you the youth of our city will rise up and call you "blessed?"

JOHN C. ROBERTSON.

Clean Up Fairground Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As St. Louis is about to have a "clean-up week," I would suggest that you call the attention of the Park Commissioner to the absolute necessity of cleaning up the east end of Fairground Park. This park, situated as it is almost in the heart of our city, and easy of access to all, and by nature one of our most beautiful breathing spots, has more the appearance of a barnyard than a park. The driveway along Grand avenue closed, piles of old cordwood, stone and rubbish strewn around promiscuously, and this condition has prevailed for the past two years and until it has become an eyesore to residents and visitors alike. I think one can find, at the most, six benches to sit upon in the shady part of the park.

C. E. NEVILLE.

Why Do Women Work?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read the articles written by "Constant Reader" and a "Bread Winner." I am a woman 53 years old, married and the mother of six children. Before marriage I was a teacher in our public schools, and if I had remained single would probably be drawing more than $100 per month. Why do women work? Because they need the money. Why do they need the money? Because the "male of the species" whose business it is, theoretically, to care for them, and who is supposed to earn their "keep" as well as his own, fails to produce the coin. Why does he fail to produce? 1. Lack of steady employment, caused by unrestricted immigration and restricted trade. Trusts and capitalists grind down wages and boost prices and profits by this means. 2. Too many expensive personal habits. Easier to take care of himself than to care for a wife and family. Self-preservation is the first law of nature. He being the voting animal gets by. He makes laws for the other fellow and when it is his time to pay lets George do it. If George is disinclined, why, ma can bear the burden. While millionaries work, why should poor women be prohibited? Why should she receive less than enough to live properly upon?

It is not only the man who pays small wages who is to blame for the conditions under which women work. The man who sells his birthright at the "polls;" the man who spends his wages in licentiousness or drunkenness; the man who keeps his purse-strings shut tight from those dependent upon him all are equally responsible for the present conditions. The man who received $200 per month and let his wife do her own housework, her own laundry and the sewing necessary for a family of children, and then had to steal from his employer, also cheated his wife and children out of the companionship and care to which they were honestly entitled, cheated some washerwoman out of a job, and some housegirl out of a good home. Some seamstress would have been the better off for the sewing. The other day one of our women received a divorce from an educator who had received a fine salary for years, and who, in the meantime, had let his wife keep boarders to support herself, her child and keep him in tenderloin steak.

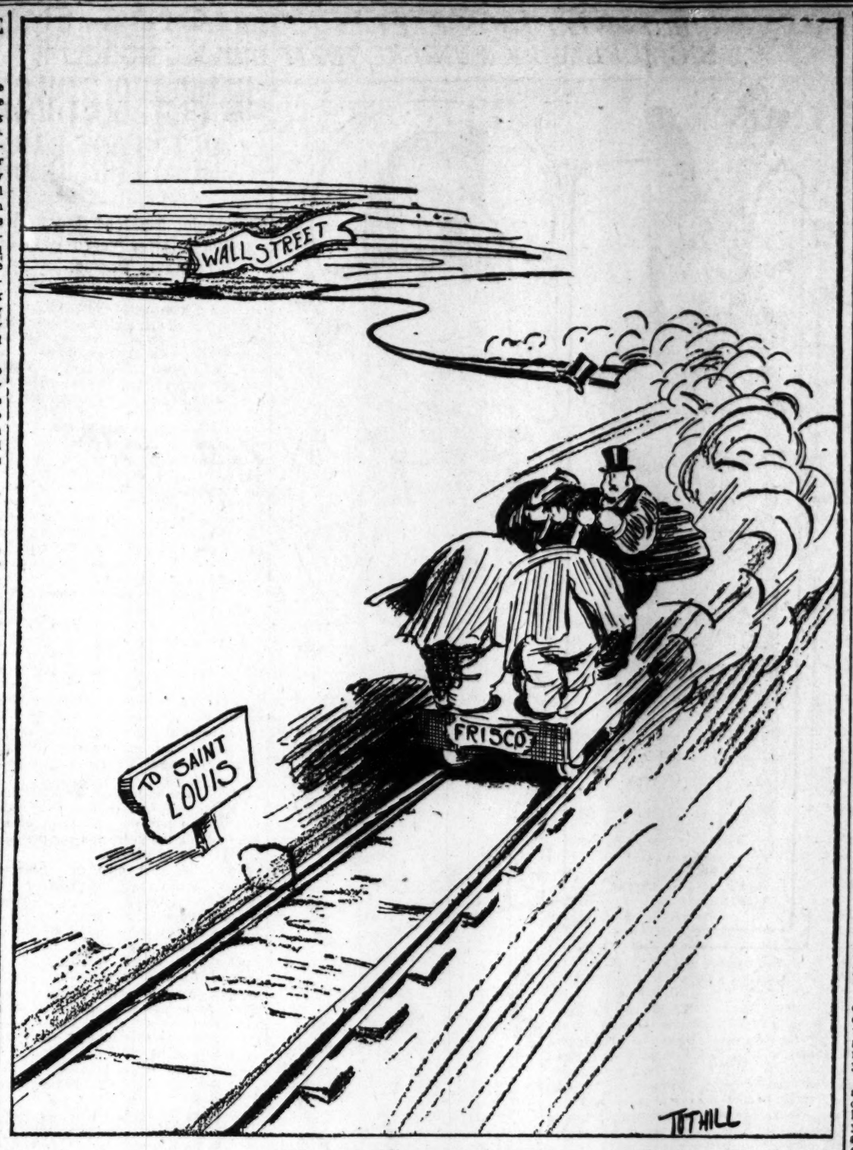

What this world should learn is that a woman's dollar contains only 100 cents, just the same thing as a man's dollar. What she does with this dollar is her own business. No employer of men put a limit on the things they shall buy or the uses to which they may put their salaries. Women are called extravagant. Tobacco and intoxicating liquors stand at the head of expensive luxuries. Very few women smoke, chew or drink. The American woman and the American home has been the economy machine which has made possible the present high state of civilization, wealth and progress of America. Had every woman in the United States received a just share of the wealth she has created, had she been paid in proportion to the good she has accomplished, and to the effort and time she has devoted to her tasks, this country would be 50 per cent better off in all respects.

FAIR PLAY.

Serum Versification.

From the Denver Times.

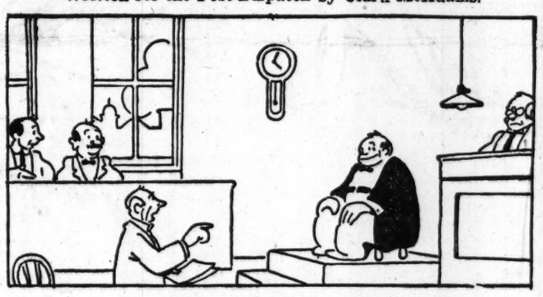

We greatly fear from all the kicks
Which toward Doc Friedmann hurtle,
That when his well-laid plans were wrecked
His serum, he turned turtle.

THE WRECKING CREW.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

BEFORE THE FREEHOLDERS.

Q. Do you believe in civil service?

A. No, sir. I think all jobs should belong to the party. If it wasn't for jobs, there wouldn't be any party.

Q. That is, the people would probably rule?

A. Yes, or there would be some similar catastrophe. (Laughter.)

Q. We have civil service in the postal department. Have you had occasion to observe that it impairs the efficiency of the department in any respect?

A. No, sir. I am not interested in the efficiency of the department. I only know that under civil service a great many jobs go to waste in the postoffice, and political parties are as a consequence weakened.

Q. Don't you consider efficiency in the department desirable?

A. It is, yes; but not at the expense of political organization.

Q. We must have political organization?

A. Yes, sir; look at what happened last Fall, when the Republican party became disorganized!

Q. What did happen?

A. The Democrats won. (Laughter.)

Q. Was that a catastrophe?

A. It was.

Q. Are you a Republican?

A. I am.

Q. Isn't it some comfort to you to feel that civil service is keeping a great many men in public offices which the Democrats would otherwise get?

A. Yes, sir. I feel good about that. (Laughter.)

Q. So that what you really believe is that civil service is a good thing for Democrats and a bad thing for Republicans.

A. Yes, sir. (Laughter.)

Q. What is the difference between a Democrat and a Republican?

A. The difference has been that a Democrat usually has some other occupation, whereas a Republican thrown out of public office has nothing to do. (Laughter.)

Q. What is a Progressive?

A. A surplus Republican.

Q. What do you mean by a surplus Republican?

A. Well, during the years of unbroken Republican rule there got to be Republicans in excess of the offices, and these became Progressives. (Laughter.)

Q. You don't think popular government could prevail without political parties?

A. It could, probably, but there would be an awful famine among professional officeholders. (Laughter.)

Q. You are not a follower of Woodrow Wilson?

A. No, sir; any more than I am trailing him in a political way with an ax. (Laughter.)

Q. You're just a plain spoilsman, without any extenuating traits?

A. Yes, sir; I'm a regular Republican. (Laughter.)

Q. Do you know Mr. Crunden here?

A. Yes, sir; but I can't do anything for him, if it's the City Hall. He'll have to see Schmoll. (General laughter.)

Chairman: That will do, thank you. (The witness goes out, muttering.)

Spiritual Advice.

From Life.

"Mah breddren," cried a Boston colored preacher, "ye must be like great Caesar's wife—above suspicion."

Those London Unionists.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Obviously the President made a big mistake in not making Samuel Gompers Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

"PURE LEGISLATION" PLAN.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Tacking "riders" to general appropriation bills has been a trick of Congress for generations. Successive Presidents have chafed at the cruel dilemmas thus forced upon them by astute politicians of a rival belief or party, and then usually accepted the horn of the dilemma authorizing treasury expenditures. Had Federal law and precedent made possible that use of the veto power carefully defined and provided for in recently revised state constitutions, namely the right to discriminate between items, resort to "riders" never would have been tried. Fortunately public opinion today is demanding that in lawmaking as in everything else there shall be sounder ethical standards. A Legislature defining a new public policy should do it explicitly, after full debate of the issue involved, and in a statute including only the matter passed upon. Thus, at the present time, if the nation is to make exceptions to the Sherman anti-trust law, let it be done squarely and not deviously by an appropriation bill "rider."

Senator Nelson of Minnesota, sensitive to the altered public mood, has taken the necessary first steps to give to the President such discriminating veto power in connection with appropriation bills as Governors of some of the states now have. It will be an involved process, calling for such surrender of power by Congress as is not likely to be made unless under strong compulsion from the public. Reason and justice on the side of this reform seem to assure its ultimate triumph.

AUSTRIAN DRAMA CENSORS.

From the London Chronicle.

The Austrian censor used to play savage tricks with the plays produced under his auspices. When Schiller's "Maid of Orleans" was produced at Vienna in 1803 the title was deemed too flippant and was replaced by that of "Joan of Arc." Agnes Corel figured as the wife of Charles VII instead of his mistress, and Queen Ysabeau was transformed into that monarch's sister in order to save him from bigamy. Until 1842 mesalliances were prohibited on the Vienna stage. When the Burg theater wished to stage one of Freytag's plays in which Count Waldemar marries a gardener's daughter the censor put his foot down. "These incidents," he said, "may unfortunately occur in real life, but they must not be seen on the stage."

A 108-YEAR-OLD AUNTIE.

From the Green County (Ky.) News.

Old Aunt Bettie Cowherd, a remarkable aged colored woman who resides with her daughter, Mrs. Bald Miller, celebrated her 109th birthday some days ago. She is in good spirits for such an advanced age, although her eyesight and hearing are quite defective. While she sees and hears with difficulty, she talks lively, and her memory is unimpaired.

Premature.

From the New York Sun.

The Hon. Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri is a youngster, but he is old enough to recognize the dangers of a premature presidential boom. He stands acquitted of responsibility for the activities of his "friends" now in Washington.

Reciprocity.

From the Houston Post.

When we read that headline—"Shriners Fill Galveston"—the beautiful and inspiring thought that came to mind was, why in the mischief didn't Galveston reciprocate?

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

CLEANSING.

HELEN.—Grease on green silk: Rub French chalk upon the wrong side; leave on all night; then cover with blotting paper and press with a warm iron. Sponge the right side with ether should a blur remain.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

B. Y. G.—Mulberry wine: Shake ripe or partly ripe berries from tree onto clean sacking or sheeting and place in tub where they may be well pounded and mashed. Strain, and to each gallon of juice add 3 pounds sugar, placing in cask with open bung. This should ferment and be fit for racking off into another cask in 6 weeks. Will be fit for bottling and use in 8 months.

SILK.—The same precautions that are used in washing fine woolens need to be taken with silk. Prepare a suds of white soap and fairly hot water and add to each gallon of water two tablespoonfuls of ammonia. If the ammonia is strong use only one tablespoonful. Let the garments soak in the suds for some time, half an hour or longer. Wash by rubbing with the hands and gently squeezing. Never rub on board and never rub soap on the silk, unless some spots are unusually obstinate. Rinse thoroughly; this means through two or three waters, the same temperature as the washing water. Iron when nearly dry. If the garments are very delicate press under a thin muslin.

MRS. M. G.—Flying ants: Get at the root of the colony, which can be done in some cases only by removing a part of the flooring or opening a space in the walls and injecting a stream of boiling water or kerosene or some other petroleum oil. A simple remedy suggested consists in sprinkling the places where the ants assemble with a good insect powder, treating all cracks in floors and shelves with a liberal inundation of the powder, and in keeping all food covered until the last ant has disappeared. Red pepper sprinkled about after the infested places have been thoroughly washed with boiling water has also been recommended.

LAW POINTS.

J. S. S.—Your contract of employment would govern; if you quit before, you could not recover.

POOR LABORER.—The charge is one left between attorney and client; no law specifically on the subject.

WORRIED.—The bill closing merchandise stores on Sunday is in the hands of the Committee on Legislation. Watch the newspapers.

MRS. M. C.—Worthy colored people as well as whites, are given free aid by the Legal Bureau in the Board of Education building, Ninth and Locust.

WIDOW.—Legal Aid Bureau (free) Board of Education Building, Ninth and Locust, may aid you to recover the actual damage sustained; to employ an attorney may cost you more than the damage.

SAM.—What agent can do in reference to the contract depends upon its conditions; if you haven't a copy ask to see the one you signed and be governed thereby. Not knowing any facts of the case we cannot advise you further.

M. N. L.—Whether an easement has accrued, and whether your neighbor can compel you to remove property on his line depends upon facts which you have failed to mention. Time and space forbid us going into details on this subject.

READER.—In St. Louis it is customary for purchaser to pay for investigation of title, which is done on what is known as certificates of title. Abstracts are issued, but certificates seem to be the rule. Continuations cost from $5 up and new certificates from $15 up. Abstracts come high.

L. F. B. X.—Although a minor, you cannot expect to retain the ring and at same time refuse to pay owing to your minority. If sued and you can prove he took advantage of your minority, charging you almost double the reasonable value of the article a court may decide the sum already paid on account in full satisfaction of the debt.

IAASIC.—If you do not desire to retain the fire insurance policy, you are privileged to return it for cancellation; however, you would be liable for premium, less credit thereon from time of cancellation. If written on mutual, co-operative or plan other than cash or stock, the case may be otherwise and you may be liable for not only the original premium, but more besides.

READER.—Estates of deceased persons, when no probate is had upon such, debts of deceased are barred 10 years after date of death; as to others debts are barred in 5 years, except as to running accounts, which are outlawed 5 years from date of last purchase. On judgments the limitation is 10 years, but may be revived if suit to do such is commenced before judgment is dead. If estates of deceased persons are administered upon, debts are outlawed one year from date of publication of creditor's notice.

MISCELLANEOUS.

READER.—No homeopathic clinic here.

K.—Bertha Westbrook married Hal Reid, playwright.

MILK FOR BABY.—Phone Tyler 2311 (Bell) for information.

H. A. D.—This column is NOT an information bureau, and we haven't the information you ask.

HERBERT.—For information as to pheasants for Illinois write State Game Farm, Auburn, Ill.

MRS. BOYD.—Eastern Star Grand Secretary, Mrs. Genevieve F. Wyatt, 3828 Arsenal. We have no White Shrine address.

STRANGER.—Your card with reference to wall bulging dangerously has been referred to the Building Commissioner for investigation.

L. M. F.—Forest Park University and convent schools in St. Louis have music department; so do Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo., and Monticello Seminary at Godfrey, Ill.

F. E. S.—The Warne of Warne avenue is pronounced in German, Varney; a as in war. Americans say Warn (a as in war), and this being the shortest pronunciation, it is likely to prevail.

JOINT WIPING.—Plumbers wipe joints with two-thirds tin and one-third lead. They judge by the working of the mixture as to the kind of joint that is to be made. Joint wiping is described fully in Starbuck's Practical Plumbing (page 87), which you can see in the Technical Department of the Public Library.

READER.—Decoration day is legal holiday in all the states (and District of Columbia, Porto Rico and Alaska) except Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and South Carolina. Confederate Memorial day June 3 (Jefferson Davis' birthday) in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and South Carolina.

EDWARDSVILLE.—Very young pheasants must be carefully supplied with ants, eggs, maggots, etc., and the whole difficulty of rearing them is in their earliest stage. Adult pheasants feed indiscriminately on berries, seeds, roots, young shoots of plants, worms, insects, etc. They roost in trees.

REFLECTION.—To plate mirrors: To plate glass the glass should come from the cutters and polishers thoroughly smooth and free from defects. It must be carefully cleansed with distilled water, dried and slightly heated. Nitrate of silver is dissolved in ammonia and is precipitated by a solution of tartaric acid. The precipitation is poured over the warmed glass and the heat helps the silver to precipitate and adhere. When thoroughly dry the silver back is coated first with shellac and then with paint. The most delicate and difficult part of the operation is the thorough preliminary cleaning of the glass.

TRICOTRIN ENTERTAINS

ANOTHER story of that prince among Paris bohemians, in which he again displays his resource.

Copyright by Mitchell Kennerly Copyright by the Paget Newspaper Service.

By LEONARD MERRICK.

PART I.

TNE night when Pitou went home, an unaccustomed perfume floated to meet him on the stairs. He climbed them in amazement.

"If we lived in an age of miracles, I should conclude that Tricotrin was smoking a cigar," he said to himself. "What can it be?"

The pair occupied a garret in the rue des Trois Freres at this time, where their window, in sore need of repairs, commanded an unrivalled view of the dirty steps descending to the Passage des Abbesses. Tonight, behold Tricotrin, pacing the garret with dignity, between his lips an Havana that could have cost no less than a franc. The composer rubbed his eyes.

"Have they made you an Academician?" he stammered, "or has your uncle, the silk manufacturer, died and left you his business?"

"My friend," replied the poet, "prepare yourself for 'a New and Powerful Feuilleton of the Most Absorbing Interest!' I am no longer the young man who went out this evening—I am a celebrity."

"I thought," said the composer, "that it couldn't be you when I saw the cigar."

"Figure yourself," continued Tricotrin, "that at 9 o'clock I was wandering on the Grands boulevards with a thirst that could have consumed a brewery. I might mention that I had also empty pockets, but"——

"It would be to pad the feuilleton shamelessly," said Pitou; "there are things that one takes for granted."

"At the corner of the Place de l'Opera, a fellow passed me whom I knew and yet did not know; I could not recall where it was we had met. I turned and followed him, racking my brains the while. Suddenly I remembered"——

"Pardon me," interrupted the composer, "but I have read Bel-Ami myself. Oh, it is quite evident that you are a celebrity—you have already forgotten how to be original!"

"There is a resemblance, it is true," admitted Tricotrin. "However, Maupassant had no copyright in the Place de l'Opera. I say that I remembered the man; I had known him when he was in the advertisement business in Lyons. Well, we have supped together; he is in a position to do me a service—he will ask an editor to publish an 'Interview' with me!"

"An 'Interview?' " exclaimed Pitou. "You are to be 'Interviewed?' Oh, no, my poor friend, too much meat has unhinged your reason! Go to sleep—you will be hungry and sane again tomorrow!"

"It will startle some of them, hein? 'Gustave Tricotrin at Home'—in the illustrated edition of Le Demi-Mot?"

"Illustrated?" gasped Pitou. He looked round the attic. "Did I understand you to say 'illustrated'?"

"Well, well," said Tricotrin, "we shall move the beds! And, perhaps, the concierge will lend us the palm from the portals. With a palm and an amiable photographer, an air of splendor is easily arrived at. I should like a screen—we will borrow one from a studio in the Rue Ravignan. Mon Dieu! with a palm and a screen I foresee the most opulent effects. 'A Corner of the Study' —we can put the screen in front of the washhand-stand, and litter the table with manuscripts—you will admit that we have a sufficiency of manuscripts?—no one will know that they have all been rejected. Also, a painter in the Rue Ravignan might lend up a few of his failures—'Before you go, let me show you my pictures!' said Monsier Tricotrin; 'I am an ardent collector!' "

In Montmartre the sight of two "types" shifting household goods makes no sensation—the sails of the windmills still revolve. On the day that I had its likeness taken, the attic was temporarily transformed. At least a score of unappreciated masterpieces concealed the dilapidation of the walls; the broken window was decorated with Eastern fabric that had been a cherished "property" of half the ateliers in Paris; the poet himself—with the palm contributed by the concierge drooping gracefully above his head—mused in a massive chair in which Solomon had been pronouncing judgment until 13:15, when the poet had called for it. The appearance of exhaustion observed by admirers of the poet's portrait was due to the chair's appalling weight. As he staggered under it up the steps of the Passage des Abbesses, the young man had feared he would expire on the threshold of his fame.

However, the photographer proved as resourceful as could be desired, and perhaps the most striking feature of the illustration was the spaciousness of the apartment in which Monsieur Tricotrin was presented to readers of Le Demi-Mot. The name of the thoroughfare was not obtruded.

With what pride was that issue of the journal regarded in the Rue des Trois Freres!

"Aha!" cried Tricotrin, who in moments persuaded himself that he really occupied such noble quarters, "those who repudiated me in the days of my struggles will be a little repentent now, hein? Stone Heart will discover that I was not wrong in relying on my genius!"

"I assume," said Pitou, "that 'Stone Heart' is your newest pet-name for the silk-manufacturing uncle?"

"You catch my meaning precisely. I propose to send a copy of the paper to Lyons, with the 'Interview' artistically bordered by laurels; I cannot draw laurels myself, but there are plenty of people who can. We will find someone to do it when we pother with starvation at the Golden Pheasant this evening—or perhaps we had better fast at the Lucullus Junior instead. There is often some ink in the bottle there. I shall put the address in the margin—my uncle will not know where it is, and on the grounds of euphony I have no fault to find with it. It would not surprise me if I received an affectionate letter and a banknote in reply—the perversity of human nature delights in generosities to the prosperous."

"It is a fact," said Pitou. "That human nature!"

"Who knows?—he may even renew the allowance that he used to make me!"

"Upon my word, more unlikely things have happened," Pitou conceded.

"Mon Dieu, Nicolas, we shall again have enough to eat!"

"Ah, visionary!" exclaimed Pitou; "are there no bounds to your imagination?"

Now the perversity to which the poet referred did inspire Monsieur Rigaud of Lyons to loosen his purse-strings. He wrote that he rejoiced to learn that Gustave was beginning to make his way, and enclosed a present of two hundred and fifty francs. More, after an avuncular preamble which the poet skipped—having a literary hatred of digressions in the work of others—he even hinted that the allowance might be resumed.

What a banquet there was in bohemia! How the glasses jingled afterwards in La Lune Rousse, and oh, the beautiful hats that Ivonne and Marcelle displayed in the Jardin des Buttes-Chaumont on the next fine Sunday! Even when the last ripples of the splash were stilled, the comrades swaggered gallantly on the Boulevard Rochechouart, for by any post might not the first instalment of that allowance arrive?

Weeks passed; and Tricotrin began to say, "It looks to me as if we needed another 'Interview'!"

And then came a letter which was no less cordial than its predecessor, but which crashed upon the humble attic like a bombshell from the Prussians. Monsieur Rigaud stated that business would bring him to Paris on the following evening, and that he anticipated the pleasure of visiting his nephew; he trusted that his dear Gustave would meet him at the station. The poet and composer stared at each other with bloodless faces.

"You must call at his hotel instead," faltered Pitou at last.

"But you may be sure he will wish to see my elegant abode."

"It is in the hands of the decorators. How unfortunate!"

"He would propose to offer them suggestions; he is a born suggester."

"Fever is raging in the house—a most infectious fever; we will ask a medical student to give us one."

"It would not explain my lodging in a slum meanwhile."

"Well, let us admit that there is nothing to be done; you will have to own up."

"Are you insane? It is improvident youths like you who come to lament their wasted lives. If I could receive him this once as he expects to be received, we cannot doubt that it would mean an income of two thousand francs to me. Prosperity dangles before us—shall I fail to clutch it? Mon Dieu, what a catastrophe, his coming to Paris! Why cannot he conduct his business in Lyons? Is there not enough money in the city of Lyons to satisfy him? O grasper! what greed! Nicolas, my more than brother, if it were night when I took him to a sumptuous apartment, he might not notice the name of the street—I could talk brilliantly as we turned the corner. Also I could scintillate as I led him away. He would never know that it was not the Rue des Trois Freres."

"You are right," agreed Pitou; "but which is the pauper in our social circle whose sumptuous apartment you propose to acquire?"

"One must consider," said Tricotrin. "Obviously, I am compelled to entertain somebody's; fortunately, I have two days to find it in. I shall now go forth!"

The Bird and the Worm.

THE Early Bird was snooping 'round
For something on the dewy ground,
When from his hole a Worm peaped out
And looking cautiously about,
Addressed the Bird: "Ah, there, old chap!
Out hunting for a morning snap?"
"U-m, yes," the Bird replied. "You've heard What's coming to the Early Bird?"
"Say, have I heard? Well, I should squirm,"
Came back the wise and wary Worm;
"And let me tell you, Mr. Bird,
Don't always bet on what you've heard.
Us Worms are hep to you Birds' plan
Of early grabbing all you can,
So we've out early rising out,
And don't get up while you're about.
Now, Birdie, you've heard what I said,
Good-by—I'm going back to bed."

THE PERFECT SUMMER COSTUME FOR OUR GIRLS.

ALONZO KIMBALL

"A correctly tailored suit is best" says artist Alonzo Kimball. "It displays our girls to greater advantage than any other garb that ever was invented. The more severely cut it is the better."

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL.

WHAT is the perfect summer costume for women?

American painters are cooperating most helpfully with the Post-Dispatch in its effort to outline a scheme of summer dress at once more beautiful, more sensible and more decorous than the advance forecast of hot weather wardrobes from Paris. Even the French artists are up in arms this season against some of the superlative absurdities of the French costumers. A number of the brush men have united in the following resolution: "We wish to use our talents in an endeavor to regenerate the fashions for women, creating modes which shall reflect the national spirit, the true modern taste, which, we fear, is in danger of being engulfed in a flood of strange elements from abroad, whose popularity is due, doubtless, to the Eastern influence in the theaters and the ballets of today."

That the American artist is in no way behind his French brother, either in patriotism or in a broad-minded appreciation of the beautiful, is shown by his readiness to help American women in solving the increasingly intricate problem of what to wear. Harrison Fisher, the popular illustrator, advised the substitution of the middy blouse and the thin white fluffy frock for the elaborate Oriental designs which, as he quite truly observed, are copied from the absolute antithesis of the American type of womanhood.

TODAY Alonzo Kimball, one of our most noted portrait painters, has specially sketched for the Post-Dispatch readers his idea of the most charming summer costume for women.

"There is nothing equal to the correctly tailored suit for the American women," Mr. Kimball told me. "It displays her to better advantage than any other costume that ever was invented. The more severely it is cut the better—and there is no reason in the world why it shouldn't be worn in summer as well as in winter, fall and spring. The summer tailored suit should be constructed of materials lighter in weight and color than those used during the other seasons. But the woman who omits it altogether from her summer wardrobe makes a grave mistake.

"When Mr. Jacques Worth was over here he commented on the peculiar grace with which our women were tailored costumes," I told Mr. Kimball. "But he couldn't explain it. Can you?"

"It's simply because American women have such supple, well-molded figures," replied the artist. "Every part is properly made and properly adjusted to every other part. There are no weak lines, no too generous curves to conceal under skillfully adjusted draperies.

"Why should not the American woman make the most of her supreme advantage? Why should she wear bunchy, heavily embroidered, overornamented frocks and suits built—it's a good word—to hide defects in the foundations—that is, in the figure underneath? Let the women of Europe go in for that sort of thing; women who have flabby, weak, unexercised bodies. But the athletic American girl can stand the cruel test of the rigorously tailored coat and skirt that conceal nothing and extenuate nothing. You know the old saying, 'Beauty unadorned is adorned the most.' That's why the perfect figure looks best in the tailored costume. There's nothing to distract the eye."

"You won't find much severe tailoring among the recent importations," I observed.

"I think the styles just now are too exaggerated for any use!" exclaimed Mr. Kimball. "And yet women seem to be swallowing them whole. They don't show any sense in the adoption of the risque modes.

"It seems to me that if the slit skirt and similar sensations are to be worn at all the place for them is in the home or among the wearer's intimate friends. Yet one sees the most extreme models in broad daylight on Broadway. And is there anything more ridiculous than the fat woman in the slit skirt?

"Moreover, if the beautiful woman is wise she will not wear garments so extravagant in design or decoration that they attract public notice. They may not make a positive fright of their wearer, as they would if she were plain or of indifferent good looks. But though conspicuous costumes cannot kill her beauty they can and do obscure it. People look at the dress instead of the dresser, and it is their impression of the former which remains with them."

"What do you think of the hats this season, with the big bows set behind?" I asked.

"They're pretty bad, aren't they?" returned Mr. Kimball. "And what's the use of wearing a hat that covers up all your hair? I can understand it if a woman hasn't much, or if it is a dingy, unattractive color. But pretty, soft hair is the most becoming frame for a pretty face. Actually, a model came in the other morning wearing a hat which so well concealed both her hair and her face that I could hardly get a look at her till she took it off.

"I like two sorts of hats. I think the small, round ones, which follow in a general way the shape of the head but which do not cover up everything from the brows to the nape of the neck, are artistic and becoming. But for summer nothing is more beautiful or more suitable than the Panama, trimmed with a soft, gayly colored scarf. I saw a young girl wearing such a hat in the street car the other day and I was so charmed with it that I made a sketch from memory as soon as I got home.

"NO summer dress can be really beautiful unless it is really comfortable. That means no high collars, no long sleeves, no heavy silks and satins. That material girls used to wear so much—organdie, wasn't it?—made charming summer dresses. An inexpensive muslin, freshly starched and laundered, is more beautiful on a warm day than a satin robe from Paris. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, after all, and the eye will not rest with pleasure on the sort of costume that it makes you hot to look at.

"Men are finding out the advantage of their summer garments," added Mr. Kimball. "They are discarding heavy woolen suits and putting on cool linens during the summer months. Of course they aren't doing it with the idea of making themselves more beautiful, but the result is artistically effective as well as individually comfortable. White linens for either sex show off excellently against a background of green grass or blue ocean.

"If a woman has small, well-made feet she will look well wearing sandals during the summer months," ended Mr. Kimball. "If she can wear them they will add to the impression of cool comfort she should endeavor to create."

The views of another artist of distinction on the topic of summer dress for women will be published later.

No Need Being Old or Wrinkled Before 75

Lillian Russell says any woman who has wrinkles before she's 75 is herself responsible for them. Sunshine and fresh air she considers more valuable as complexion preservers than nostrums and cosmetics.

The chief objection to cosmetics is that at best they only temporarily cover up defects. There are certain true aids to Nature, which may be applied with directly opposite effect. Ordinary mercolised wax, for instance, actually removes a bad or oldish complexion, by gradually, almost imperceptibly, peeling off the worn-out scarf skin. Just one ounce, procurable at any drug store, will soon unveil an entirely new and natural complexion, with an exquisite girlish color. Of course cutaneous blemishes like pimples, freckles, fine lines, moth patches, liver spots, disappear with the discarded skin.

To prevent or remove wrinkles a face bath which also produces natural redness, is made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is immediately effective. Full directions for home use come in each package of saxolite, which can be obtained from any druggist.

THE LAST STRAW

BEING remarks on current dancing which is far from entrancing to a writer for the Post-Dispatch.

By HELEN ROWLAND.

I HAVE flirted, oh, how madly!
I have frivoled, oh, how sadly!
I have had my youthful fling, like all the rest.
I have puffed a cigarette,
Upon a foolish little bet,
And I've danced until the morning, with a zest—
Yes, I've danced until the sun rose, with a zest!

I have frolicked and coquetted,
I have waltzed and pirouetted,
I have done SO many things that I should not.
But, I've never, no I've never
(Nor will I, ever, EVER!)
Danced the "grizzly," or the "bunny," or the "trot"—
Danced the stupid, idiotic turkey trot!

I have lots of imperfections,
(Note my synical "Reflections!")
And I know the Genus Homo through and through.
I have sampled matrimony,
But I give my testimony,
That there's one thing I shall never, never do —
Oh, there's one thing, that I'd rather DIE than do.

I am cynical, flirtatious,
I am worldly and vivacious,
For the simple life I do not care a jot;
But the sweet old-fashioned dances
Were the spirit of romances,
Not the wriggly, giggly, wiggly turkey trot
Not the horrid, florid, torrid, turkey trot!

And, oh, here's a thought that's sweeter
When I stand and face St. Peter,
And he asks, "What claim to Heaven have YOU got?"
I shall answer, "Only this, sir,
Is my claim to future bliss, sir,
That I never, never danced the turkey trot—
Danced the 'grizzly,' nor the 'bunny,' nor the 'trot.'"
And he'll cry: "Oh, WELCOME, Helen!" on the spot!"
Yes, he'll crown me with a halo on the spot!

A Handful of Mysteries.

A MAN of royal bearing appeared in a French prison one day, his face hidden in a mask of iron and velvet. He lived in prison for years, his face never seen even by his keepers. He died, still in his mask. No one knows who he was. A boy of 17 appeared one day in the streets of a German city. He had never learned to speak. His hands and feet had never been used and were round and pudgy, like a baby's. He had never seen a book, a picture or an animal. Soon afterward he was mysteriously murdered. No one has ever solved this mystery. A series of venomous, brilliant letters published in an English newspaper attacked great men and the Government and caused the wildest excitement all over the world. The cleverest search and richest rewards failed to unearth the author of these "Junius Letters." Wilkes Booth shot President Lincoln and was in turn reported shot. Yet for years afterward several men were pointed out, with more or less plausibility, as Wilkes Booth. His possible fate is believed by many to be still a black mystery. These are but a few of the countless mysteries with which history is starred.

What Poverty Does for Us.

"POVERTY is good for nobody," said the lecturer. "It embitters the mind, hardens the heart, causes unhappiness and fear and suffering.

"'There's nothing like adversity,' a millionaire once said to me—'there's nothing like adversity to bring a man out.'

"'Yes,' I replied, 'out at the elbows.'"
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Mystery.

VISITOR: I understand that you had an amateur dramatic performance in the town hall last night?

Native: Yes; the Sock and Buskin Club played "Little Mac, or the Mountain Mystery."

"Ah! And what was the mystery?"

"As near as I could make out the mystery was how the audience stood it till the last act was over."—Tit-Bits.

Love A La Mode.

I MET her—well, no matter where—
And, ere I told my passion,
I boldly wooed this maiden fair
In quite romantic fashion.
But, when I thought the prize was won,
My heart with joy inflated,
She hinted Bradstreet, also Dun,
And asked how I was rated.
Amazed at this, I questioned why
She touched on golden coffers.
She looked me coolly in the eye
And mentioned other offers.
I satisfied her on this score,
But thought it past endurance
When she began to ask some more
About my life insurance.
I stood there in the evening glow,
And watched her like a dumb thing,
Her figure might, for all I know,
Be Philhellene—or something.
If deafening were these notes of love,
The next one was a whopper—
It was the fluctuations of Amalgamated Copper.
'Tis only proper to relate,
With mutual love we parted,
And neither in that parlous state
The poets call "broken-hearted."
But this I know, if some fine day
The lady's not a peeress,
She's bound to blaze the golden way—
A frenzied financieress.

M'LEAN KNOCKED OUT, HUG WIRES FOR KID SNYDER

Cards' Catchers Are All Laid Up by Injury and Illness.

GRINER-PERRITT vs. BROWN-SUGGS TODAY

THE pitching problem is worrying both Manager Huggins and Boss Tinker today. Neither are equipped just now to handle so many double-headers and early indications are that more than one pitcher will officiate for each side in each bout this afternoon.

Manager Huggins' morning nomination was Griner for the first game and Polly Perritt for the final. Polly went five rounds against the Reds Thursday. Tinker probably will start Suggs in the opener and M. Brown in the second set-to.

By W. J. O'Connor

"There's only one place hotter than St. Louis was yesterday and, thank goodness, there's no league there," said Larry McLean Saturday when he sat up to take nourishment.

Larry stewed through two games Friday and he was down for the count when the final frolic came to a close. Withal McLean is slated to catch both ends of a bargain matinee Saturday and there's no way for Larry to dodge the issue.

Huggins' catching staff is shot, Ivey Wingo having a busted hand, while Palmer Hildebrand has a lame ankle. Both are under the doctor's care. Wingo submitting his ailing fin to the X-ray Saturday morning.

This puts the entire catching burden up to McLean. If the thermometer were not smashing altitude records Larry would not care a damson plum about doing all the catching. However, the humidity is too great just now for the big backstop, and Manager Huggins has wired to Springfield, O., for Catcher Snyder, released this spring to Indianapolis. Snyder still belongs to the Cards. He may be asked to report here Sunday and tarry a week until Hildebrand or Wingo rounds to.

McLean Asked to Be Taken Out.

McLean was in a pretty bad way in the morning game. Larry asked to be taken out in the eleventh inning, but Hug couldn't find a substitute. However, McLean's case was so desperate that Heine Peitz donned the shin guards and was about to break into a box score when McLean took the bit in his teeth and finished out the game. Speaking of cripples, moreover, no club in the Lynch League has had more misfortune this season than the Cardinals. With Hauser, Wingo and Hildebrand absolutely out of it at the same time, and O'Leary and Mowrey limping, the local entry is truly up against hard going.

Magee Kills the Jinx.

Lee Magee, after registering 27 successive swat failures, finally routed his jinx in the afternoon game, when he combed a single off Harter. Lee was the first man to face Harter in the fifth frame. He cracked a single to center.

Magee's value to a ball club was emphasized during his prolonged batting slump. Although he had gone through six games without getting the semblance of a hit, Lee kept fighting, and it was his aggressiveness that kept him in the game.

After he had broken into the hit column, Magee played with renewed energy. His de luxe effort was a mad dash from first to third while O'Leary was being retired, Groh to Marsans. It was a Ty Cobb sprint. Lee fading away from Almeida, who took the ball ahead of the runner. Two brilliant catches by Lee saved Steele's angers later in the game.

Huggins' Record Grows.

Huggins scored his first pass in the fourth inning of the afternoon game. The Rabbit has played in 36 games and has walked 31 times, which is close to record stuff. Hug never played a better game in his whole career than he is right now. He's operating well on the bases and is setting an example for all the kids on the team. He deserves to win oftener.

Australian Cricketers Win Again.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31.—The visiting Australian cricket team again took the Pacific Coast circuit into camp yesterday by an innings and 139 runs, 50 runs more than in Thursday's match. The Australians scored 333 for the first six wickets.

Five Conference Records Likely to Fall at Stadium

World's Mark in Danger

Nicholson, Thatcher, East and Case Should Furnish Competition That May Produce Exceptional Performances—Preliminaries Result in Fast Time.

FIVE Missouri Valley Conference track and field records are in danger today, when the finals in the annual athletic meeting of the organization are held at Francis Field.

Nicholson, in the high hurdles, stands a good chance of lowering the 15 2-5 mark he set last season, and, indeed, has an outside chance of establishing a new world's record; East of Purdue will be pressed hard and may put the time for 440 yards under 50 seconds; Thatcher is at any time likely to improve his discus and shot-put records as he is gaining strength at these events daily for the last year; while Case may press Kirksey into beating 25 seconds in the low hurdles.

The 100-yard dash, as outlined by the result of Friday's preliminaries, will bring together some good men, none of whom has bettered 10 1-5 in public trials. The best time of the preliminary heats was 10 2-5 seconds, made by both Kaiser of Ames and Coleman of Tulane. The semi-finals of this event have yet to be run, but the elimination will doubtless see Applegate, Coleman, Reese and Kaiser fighting it out for first place.

Kirksey Has Busy Day.

Guy Kirksey's work Friday indicates the husky Missouri sprinter and hurdler did not extend himself, and is saving his best efforts for today, when he will be called upon to run not less than three times, and probably four. He will have to be at his very best to win a single first, or even to score points in more than one event. Kirksey is against a dangerous opponent in Case in the Missourian's favorite contest, the 220 hurdles. Case is very likely to trim Kirksey. If he does, a new record will be hung up in this event, for Kirksey holds the conference record now.

The pace appears too hot for the Tiger in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, although he may score points in the 220.

Look for Record Here.

The great race of the day will be the meeting of Hazen, Case and Nicholson in the high hurdles, scheduled to go on at 2:35 o'clock. Hazen is outclassed, although better than a 16-second man. This race should be run in 15 1-5 seconds, unless Nicholson upsets too many hurdles, loses a shoe or falls, anyone of which mishaps is likely to overtake the erratic hurdler.

But for his weakness in clearing the sticks, Nicholson would be the greatest of all of them. But with Nick lacking consistency when the pace grows too hot, Case figures the better man to string with day in and day out.

Unless Kirksey and Nicholson can come through with a big batch of points, Missouri stands a chance of losing the meet. If Kirksey should miss out in the sprints, and Case beat both Nicholson and Kirksey in the hurdle events, it would split up the points sadly and give Purdue or some other team a look-in. Thatcher is good for 10 points, apparently. Nicholson will get at least as many more. If the rest of the team of 20 Missourians here can collect 10 points, the banner this afternoon will go to the Tigers.

Good Time in 440.

The 440-yard race will be a corker if Cowman, the "one-man team" from the Missouri School of Mines, and East of Purdue run to their form in the preliminaries. Cowman pressed East hard and the latter was forced to do 49 4-5 seconds to win his heat, yesterday. The event looks to be between this pair on that showing.

The relay race at one mile should be the most spectacular event of the day. It is a foregone conclusion that the mile relay will go to Illinois University. The Illini half-mile-team was unable to be present, owing to examinations.

Thatcher's remarkable discus throw at the Penn relay games justifies the belief that he will better the conference record today. Thatcher is probably the best weight man in the Middle West and if the hammer threw were on the program of the conference games, Missouri would probably score 15 points instead of 10 through his work.

The management reports an unexpectedly large advance sale of seats for the finals today and a good attendance is looked for. However, whether the attendance justifies it or not, the meet is to return to St. Louis in 1914. A meeting of conference officials was held Friday to discuss the matter. It was agreed that St. Louis was the logical location for holding the games next season.

Today's Meet Will Be Run on Time Schedule

TIME, schedule and order of events in the finals of the meet this afternoon:

As for the Browns, they came durned near winning a game of ball Friday. Looks like first division.

STAR RUNNERS ENTER H. A. C. GAMES SUNDAY

The Hibernian Athletic Club has a large and classy list of entries for its opening at Hibernian Park Sunday. An entry list of over 100, composed of the best local athletes, has been received.

John McCawley and Bob Worrell of the M. A. C., Paul Smith, H. J. Powell and Julius David of the Police Department, Bob Probst, L. Commiskey, Peter McGauley, E. Belleville of the H. A. C., and Clinton Willett of the C. B. C. are among the leading competitors in the 100-yard dash.

The hop, step and jump has 10 entries, while the quarter-mile has 14. In the five-mile are Joe Erxleben, Frank Johnson and Joe Bantle of the M. A. C., Gus Alvey of C. B. C., John Probst, T. J. McCarthy, C. P. Seaton, Nelson Green, Lewis Lefler of the Hibernian A. C.

Ed Koney's Failure to Sacrifice Prevents Cards From Winning Two

ED KONEY'S failure to sacrifice deprived the Cards of a victory in the morning game yesterday. They took the count, 5—3, in 13 frames, but came back in the afternoon and sandbagged the Reds, Benton up, 6—4.

Koney's blunder came in the eleventh round. Mowrey opened hostilities with a sharp single to center and promptly pilfered second. Then Koney twice failed to bunt and wound up by swinging at a low one. He was an easy out for Marsans, Mowrey hugging second. Oakes came next with a smart smash at Tinker and Mowrey was nailed going to third. Mowrey would have scored on Oakes' grounder had Koney sacrificed. Incidentally had Koney done his part, putting Mowrey on third, the Red infield would have been in and Oakes' roller would have gone for a single. But alas and alack, the Big Train fell down.

Bob Harmon isn't a relief pitcher. He never was, moreover, and his defeat in the thirteenth round yesterday was his second in three days. He was trounced in the seventeenth stanza in Chicago Wednesday when he tried to relieve Dan Griner.

Bill Steele staggered through the second game. At least, from the cupola on the grand stand roof it looked as though Steele had nothing but his glove and tobacco. However, he got rattling good support while the Reds pulled a few bones on the bases, making victory possible. At that, Sanford Burk was obliged to rescue Big Bill in the ninth. Burk fooled Tinker on strikes with the tieing run on second base.

This young man Burk is going to get a good chance in the near future. Huggins promises to start Sanford in a game and the sharps believe the slender flinger who has a smoky ball will canter home. Burk is a pretty shrewd gink.

The Giant cast-offs are doing noble work for the Reds. Leon Kalamity Ames pitched a bang-up bout for Tinker's tribe in the matin show. However, he was obliged to yield to Packard in the tenth. Packard won the bout. But Devore and Groh played with fiendish intent in both bouts and were largely responsible for the enemy's good showing. Cincinnati sharps say that any one of the trio is better than Fromme, who went to McGraw.

Teddy Cather started his team on the road to victory in the afternoon game. With Hug and Oakes on the towpaths, Ted trotted a double to right, scoring two. Withal he was derricked in favor of Sheckard as soon as a right-hander went to the hillock for the enemy.

The new Cardinal batting order looks good. Oakes, who is hitting and hustling, swings in second place. Magee, who has stumped, is down in sixth hole. This combination won its first time out.

The Reds are improving and should begin to climb from this date. Tinker needs another pitcher or two, but with M. Brown for relief duty he may stagger into a lofty second division berth. It's really hard to see anything better than fifth for the Reds, even though they should continue their present smart pace.

Leland Stanford Beats Japs.

TOKIO, May 31.—The Leland Stanford, Jr. University baseball team defeated the Meiji University team today by a score of 1 to 0. The Japanese, however, made three hits to the Americans' one. Each side made two errors.

FAILURE TO PASS LARRY BRINGS WOE TO CARL WEILMAN

Frenchman, In Pinch-Hitting Role, Starts Two-Run Rally After Two Are Out.

CLEVELAND, May 31.—Somebody blundered, and it might have been Stovall, usually shrewd. It all happened thusly:

In the seventh inning of yesterday's game, which the Naps won 5—4 in 10 frames, Larry Lajoie was substituted at bat for Willie Mitchell when the Naps had a runner on second and two out. Doc Johnston, who followed Lajoie, had proved easy all afternoon for Weilman, and it looked like good policy to pass the Frenchman. However Stovall let Weilman pitch to Larry, who nicked a two-bagger, scoring O'Neill. A single then scored Lajoie. Those two runs cost the game.

The Brown later squared the count, but the Naps kept fighting, and won out in the tenth. In this round Johnson coaxed a pass, advanced on a sacrifice, took third on a short single to left, and scored on a sacrifice fly.

The Browns played a bang-up game, and kept the rollicking Naplanders on their toes. Weilman pitched well enough to win had he used better judgment in the pinches. However, his failure to pass Lajoie might rightfully be charged to Stovall, who should advise such earnest-working kids as tall Carl.

Rain Crimps Box Office.

The Browns were forced to remain idle in the morning because of rain. Incidentally this rest cost the club several sheckels, as Cleveland is wild about the Naps, and a crowd of 15,000 was expected out for the forenoon bout. About 17,000 reported in the afternoon, threatening skies scaring many away. The teams play a single contest this afternoon, and double-up Sunday with a bargain matinee. These two performances should prove very profitable.

Although beaten yesterday, the Browns still hold sixth place by a scant margin. The Tigers are right at their heels, and unless Stovall can bag two of the remaining three games, the St. Louis entry may drop down a notch.

3500 on Chicago's Public Links.

CHICAGO, May 31.—New records for attendance at the public golf courses were made on Memorial day, when more than 3500 players teed off at three links in the city parks. A course recently opened at Marquette Park was too wet from recent rains to permit of play, otherwise the attendance, it is estimated, would have been more than 4000.

Why They Rap Boxing.

AFTER all, it's not what boxing is, that causes the continued raps on the game; it's what its promoters do. Persons behind the sport apparently do not know how to play fair. Given an inch of liberty they take a world of license, to the end that the authorities step in and take away all rights or privileges formerly enjoyed.

More harm has been done to the game in St. Louis from within than from without. Trying to fudge on the liberties accorded by the Police Department has held up three clubs in St. Louis. Once the boxing game was closed down, as a result, for six months; on two occasions the clubs involved have been forced out of business. Friday night a new organization, at the beginning of its career, started tactics that will doubtless put it out of commission.

Legitimate clubs that are trying to do right are the sufferers by such petty infractions of the regulations. In the end the game will be entirely stopped, and the organizations that have been faithful to police injunctions will be wiped out with the offenders.

The momentary five-spot seems to blind the boxing promoter to ultimate consequences. As a matter of fact it doesn't take a five spot. A jitney would dazzle most of them.

Midsummer Madness.

JOE WOOD and Walter Johnson both beaten the same day and in the same series! And yet there are those who think they pick baseball winners.

* * *

That Nap Menace.

THIS Cleveland peril is becoming serious. At present writing the club is running easily in second place and doing everything as well or better than its rivals. The team is outhitting every other club in either league by 20 points. It is that far ahead of the Cardinals, which club—strange to relate—is leading the teams of the National League at bat. It is 30 points stronger at bat than its nearest American League rival—the Athletics. Its figure at present is .285. The club is a mere fraction behind the Athletics in team fielding and they still own the leading and an unbeaten pitcher in Falkenberg, who has won nine successive games.

The club is weak on the base lines; and if anything beats it, it will be this factor.

With Lajoie in the lineup daily, the team can afford to carry this weak ness, for it is essentially a club that will bat in its tallies.

* * *

Why the Athletics?

THE Athletics are still out in front, sometimes one wonders how. The pitching staff is not wholesome, right now, although youngster Wyckoff is saving the day by exceptional work. The team is hitting 40 points below its real strength. Thus in the two rival departments of the sport the club is below standard. Yet it continues to stall off the rush of the Naps and the Senators.

The conclusion to be drawn is that the Athletics have a splendid chance to improve, by coming up to their real strength, while the Cleveland club should retrograde. The team is probably going above its real stride, especially in the work of its pitchers.

Double Attraction at C. B. C.

A ball game with Concordia Seminary and a dual track meet with McKendree College will keep the athletes of C. B. C. busy Saturday afternoon. The field meet will start at 1 o'clock while the ball game is scheduled for 3 p. m. One admission covers both shows.

Police Prevent Crescent Club's First Mitt Bout

Tickets Sold Openly Is Charge Made by Capt. Gaffney.

The Crescent Athletic Club's opening boxing show, scheduled to take place at Mannion's Park, South St. Louis, Friday night, with Art Magiri and Ed Rivoire as the principals in the feature event, was prevented by the police.

Patrolman H. A. Smith, in citizen's clothes, purchased a ticket without a membership card, from Francis Hennessey, shortly before time for the show to begin. He reported to Capt. Gaffney, who promptly stepped the show on the ground that it was not a club exhibition, but a public one.

The club had planned to move up town later and hold its entertainments in a theater building.

After the bout had been stopped Charley Leyh, a boxer, reported to Capt. Gaffney that the patrolman, Smith, who had purchased the ticket, had been seen drinking by him. Lieut. P. H. Florida went with Leyh and the latter pointed out Patrolman Smith as the man he had seen drinking beer.

Smith has been ordered to make a report. Smith was not on duty at the time, he having been relieved.

Gilbert Knocks Out Morrissey.

Albert Gilbert of St. Charles rocked Lee Morrissey of Oklahoma to sleep in their bout at St. Charles Friday night. They met before at the Future City A. C. and Morrissey was awarded the decision on a foul. Ortlapp and Burgess boxed six rounds to a draw in the only preliminary. Tommy Sullivan was the third man in the ring.

FEDERAL'S STAR PITCHERS SOUGHT BY BIG LEAGUERS

Independent League's Talent Will Be Grabbed as Soon as Developed.

By Clarence F. Lloyd

What's going to happen if Jack O'Connor turns out a couple of phenoms during the career of his Federal League team? A couple of his young tossers have already attracted more than ordinary attention with prospects of keeping up the gait.

Should Chief Rehmer and Jack Mullen continue their present clip on the road, the major leaguers may grab them. In fact, it is rumored that the big fellows are planning to swoop down on the baby league just as soon as any of the men show form which will warrant the "steal."

The baseball that the St. Louis Federals put up in the last three games—incidentally they were won from the Pittsburg Filipinos—would surprise some of those who have been skeptical about the new league. The class is lacking, of course. And St. Louis University has not the baseball atmosphere one discovers at big League parks.

But the entertainment itself is the thing, and on the last three games played at Federal League Park were worth while.

Pittsburg Twice Beaten.

O'Connor's team mixed more strenuously in the race Friday by bagging both games of the bargain day bill from the Filipinos. In the opener, Jack Mullen put it over old Deacon Phillips, the former Pirate, who elected himself to twirl, 3—0. Harry Reis, the ex-Cardinal, held the Pittsburgers to five hits in the second and trimmed Bridges, recently released by O'Connor, 3—2 in 10 innings.

While the victories greatly aided the St. Louis team, O'Connor's crew may be handicapped for awhile. After he had won his game, Mullen was handed a telegram which said that his sister was dying and he departed last night for Philadelphia. When he returns is a question.

During the first game "Ribby" Murphy, in sliding into first base, strained a tendon in his side and will be out of the game for at least a week.

But while winning, O'Connor is still dissatisfied with his team. He craves more and better talent. That he will line up other material on the trip which started last night he is confident. Money will not stand in the way of O'Connor signing new men, he has been assured by the men who own the local franchise.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

Walter Johnson's second defeat of the season was a sure enough tough one. The Red Sox put it over, 1—0. Hooper, the first man to face Johnson, hit a home run. Thereafter only three hits were made off the Fireball King and those were very much scattered.

Johnson's fate was no worse than Wood's. Smokey Joe yielded to Groom in a dual, 4—3. Shanks' triple, following a walk, cinched the verdict for the Senators.

The Athletics feasted at the expense of the Yanks, and still hold a commanding lead over the A. L. field. The Mackmen took both games yesterday.

Lake pitched the Tigers to victory in the morning game against the Sox. He won out, 3—2. Ty Cobb got one hit out of four trips to the plate.

Clyde Milan didn't steal a base in either game Friday. His record is getting an alum bath.

Nap Rucker hasn't yet recovered from the injury suffered in the Cardinal series. A few more defeats and the Superbas will start on their downward journey.

The Giants are rocketing along, their double win over the Phillies putting them right up near the top. Marquard rescued Fromme in the morning game, while Tesreau went the route in the afternoon. The Phils now are within hailing distance.

The Pirates harpooned the Cubs, 2—1, in the only game the teams could put on in Piratetown. Viox's double gave Camnitz the decision over Reulbach.

Bill Phelon, the Cincinnati writer, is a regular Louis Duffy on statistics. Bill comes to bat with the statement that in all the history of baseball there have been only two players parading under the Monaker—Ames. And Bill further deponeth that L. K. Ames of the Reds was one of them and K. L. Ames of Princeton was the other. The reversed initials is the reason for this wheeze. Knowlton L. Ames was Princeton's greatest star. He pitched and also played football, captaining the eleven which beat Harvard, 41—18, in the early nineties.

From a financial viewpoint, the Cardinals' season to date has been none too successful. Although they had a very good road trip, the Britton entry returned home Thursday and played to a small crowd. They also had a slim turnout Friday—morning and afternoon. On their recent road trip, the Cards lost a Saturday game in Brooklyn and played on rainy days in New York. They got a little money in Boston and Philadelphia, but all in all, the picking has been poor.

PENNSY AND CORNELL TO FIGHT FOR POINT BANNER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31.—A close fight between Pennsylvania and Cornell for the intercollegiate championship with Yale, Michigan and Dartmouth actively seeking points in the hope of profiting by the upsets of others, marked the final stage in the Harvard Stadium today of the annual intercollegiate track and field meet, in which more than a score of American colleges were represented.

From the trial heats in 11 events yesterday, Pennsylvania brought through only eight athletes, but was still the favorite today. The Red and Blue expected to show additional strength in the mile and two-mile runs through Madeira and McCurdy, respectively.

Cornell, which had 10 men qualified, also hoped for victory with Jones, their captain, running in the mile and with Speiden in the two-mile. Although Harvard qualified 12 men her prospect was not strong.

YALE NINE FAVORED TO BEAT PRINCETON TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—Yale and Princeton were to cross bats on Yale Field this afternoon in the first of the "Big" Eastern collegiate games of the season. The Blue was a favorite, because of its remarkable record of 23 victories out of 27 games played. Although Williams caught Yale in a slump Tuesday and succeeded in shattering the Blues' record of 17 straight victories, Coach Quinby had his men on edge for the game today.

The reappearance of Pumpelly, the heavy-hitting right fielder, who has been out of the game a short time with a sprained ankle, added strength to the Blue. Brown, for Yale, and Wood, for Princeton, are the pitchers.

DE ORO STILL CHAMPION ALTHOUGH 50 YEARS OLD

Alfredo de Oro, holder of the world's championship at pocket billiards, who plays John Horgan this week for the three-cushion billiard championship, recently celebrated his fiftieth birthday. He was born in Manzanillo, Cuba, April 28, 1863, and when 10 years of age was sent by his father to New York to attend school. A few years later he began to play pool, and from that time on the young Cuban devoted more time to the game than to his studies.

In the early 80's De Oro became noted as an expert, and tied Albert Frey and J. L. Malone in his first tournament for the championship in 1887. Later in the same year De Oro won the championship from Malone, and he has held it at frequent times since. He holds the record for run under the old break, namely, 96 balls, and also for the new open break, 59 balls. He held the three-cushion billiard title at different times during 1908-09-10 and 1911.

STANDARD PROGRAM OF EVENTS FOR OLYMPIC

As a result of the recent International Olympic Congress at Lausanne, a special committee was appointed to map out a standardized program of events for the 1916 games to be held in Berlin. It will be exact and permanent. More than this, the precise style and effect which the judges desire will be laid down.

Divers, for example, will know exactly what patterns in the air their bodies are expected to assume; and no longer will the nation which is the host be able to demand special events, as the Swedes last year insisted on races rowed in boats without outriggers. The standardized program will not be fixed until next year, but the Germans are understood to be willing to accept it.

Hoosiers Will Not Compete.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 27.—Indiana University will not participate in the Western Conference meet at Madison, Wis., on June 7, it was announced tonight. Dr. C. P. Hutchins, athletic director, said that his team was so badly crippled by the loss of Rose, Malott, Nicholls and Capt. Morrison that he deemed it inadvisable to send any team.

BANKS SHOW A GAIN IN THE SURPLUS ITEM

Loans Decrease and Reserves Rise $1,300,000 on the Week.

Stocks Reflect Heavy Selling in Berlin Market.

BERLIN, May 31.—There was a general slump on the bourse here today, and selling orders poured into the collapsed market on a rumor which was afterward confirmed that the Morman Imperial Bank and the Prussian State Bank were taking up today $56,250,000 4 per cent Treasury bills, repayable in 1935. The movement was accentuated by unfavorable home and foreign iron markets, in which falls of 3 and more points were recorded. The issue of the Treasury bills is divided into $12,500,000 on account of the imperial loan and $43,750,000 on account of the Prussian consolidated loan which is to be used principally for railroad construction. Public subscription for the bills is to open on June 12, at 97 9-10, or 97 7-10 for bills not negotiable until April 15, 1914.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"European stock exchanges were open, and the day was marked by considerable weakness at Berlin—a response to the seemingly unexpected news that the German Government was issuing $56,000,000 bonds. The London market appeared to be chiefly influenced by these Berlin developments.

The Bank Statement.

"The weekly bank statement was issued today as usual. It showed a slight net loss in cash, but was so large a loan reduction (in spite of the influence which had been expected from the city loan subscriptions) that the surplus reserve of all institutions remained practically unchanged. The deposit banks, taken alone, added $1,300,000 to their surplus."

Bank Statement Makes Only Fair Showing for the Week.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week (five days) shows that they hold $27,208,500 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $89,900.

The statement follows: Actual conditions: Loans, $1,915,355,000; specie, $340,386,000, decreased $183,000; legal tenders, $84,235,000, decrease $7,396,000; circulation, $47,062,000, increase $220,000; banks' cash in vault $358,053,000. Trust companies' cash reserve in vault, $65,668,000; aggregate cash reserve, $424,621,000; excess lawful cash reserve, $27,208,500, decrease $89,900. Trust companies' reserve with clearing house members carrying 25 per cent cash reserve, $57,918,000.

Summary of State banks and trust companies in Greater New York not included in clearing house statement: Loans, $567,180,600, decrease $2,105,500; specie, $66,092,700, increase $184,600; legal tenders, $7,849,300, decrease $309,000. Total deposits, $642,981,400, decrease $3,007,000.

American Stocks Are Easier in the London Market.

LONDON, May 31.—The stock market was dull and irregular today. Further liquidation occurred in Brazilian rails and Rio Tintos, while Canadian Pacific fell 3 points on Berlin sales, which were accompanied by rumors of a new Imperial loan.

American securities opened easy and a fraction lower and later the decline continued under the lead of Canadian Pacific. The close was easy with prices from ¼ above to 2¾ below parity.

Money was in strong demand and discount rates were steady.

Wheat futures were sharply higher Saturday, on rather sensational damage reports from Kansas and the Southwest. If one believed some of the messages sent into commission houses by the so-called experts, Kansas would not have much more than seed, whereas 10 days ago the crop promised over 100,000,000 bu for the State.

A peculiar feature of wheat speculation is, according to the "crop killers," that cold weather in the winter and high temperatures in the summer are bad for the crop.

Corn futures were a fraction higher in sympathy with wheat, despite the fact that the hot weather is just what is needed for the crop. The May option jumped 2½c to 61c as the market closed, owing to the demand from a few shorts. Oats also were higher on unfavorable crop advices.

The official Liverpool cable said:

"The wheat market yesterday was easy and closed unchanged to ⅜d lower, with the principal weakness in May as a result of heavy deliveries, while the distant months held relatively steady on the light Argentine shipments, forecast of smaller world's shipments for the week, and the Indian official report which placed their wheat crop at 360,840,000 bu, against 373,104,000 bu last year.

"Today the wheat market opened steady and ¼d to ⅜d higher, and following the opening there was a further advance of ⅛d to ⅜d with active buying on reports of hot weather in Kansas and Missouri, which caused shorts to cover. Buying was further stimulated by firmer and fewer Manitoba offers and less favorable conditions in the United Kingdom.

"Corn closed quiet and unchanged yesterday and continued quiet and unchanged today. The effect of the heavy Argentine shipments was offset by the strength in the wheat market."

Broomhall estimates the world's shipments for the week, exclusive of North America, at 7,200,000 bu.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ⅛d to ⅜d higher, corn unchanged. Paris wheat ¼c to 1¼c lower, flour ¼c lower. Antwerp wheat unchanged, Berlin 1⅜c lower, and Budapest ⅛c lower.

Minneapolis wheat cars were 292, against 176 last week and 110 last year. Duluth 42, against 44 and 56. Winnipeg 281, against 364 and 236. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 80,000 bu for 1 day.

Minneapolis total wheat stocks are 6,587,699 bu; decrease for week, 63,834 bu; increase over last year, 5,978,602 bu. Contract stocks, 14,678,513 bu; decrease for week, 680,710 bu; increase over last year, 7,451,587 bu.

Estimated world's shipments of wheat for the week, exclusive of North America, 7,200,000 bu; last week, 9,868,000 bu; last year, 5,272,000 bu.

Total primary wheat receipts were 751,000 bu, against 439,000 bu; shipments 446,000 bu, against 694,000 bu last year. Corn receipts 1,130,000 bu, against 780,000 bu last year; shipments 1,760,000 bu, against 431,000 bu last year. Oats receipts 1,138,000 bu, against 466,000 bu last year; shipments 752,000 bu.

B. W. Snow wired: "My reports from Kansas and Oklahoma, fairly covering both states, show that crop damage is already severe. In the districts of both states where conditions have been uniformly good up to this time, my county agents now report that the crop is going back, and it looks as if Kansas may have lost 15 points and Oklahoma still more since May 1."

The Van Dusen-Harrington Co.'s crop report says: "Conditions throughout the Northwest during the past week have been excellent. Until Sunday temperatures were cool, but genuine summer weather has prevailed since, which will induce a very rapid growth of all kinds of grain. Our advices are all of the most favorable character and reflect a feeling of great optimism over the outlook. Indications are for showers during the next day or two, which will be of benefit, though there is no lack of moisture in the ground."

B. W. Snow says: "My reports up to date from county agents indicate a decrease in acreage of perhaps 750,000 acres. Apparently the average condition will be lowest since 1907. The prospect is good in Iowa, Nebraska and the Northwest states, but is decidedly poor in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. The June report is usually the highest of the season, and it looks as if this report may not forecast much if anything above a billion bushels against a crop last year of 1,418,000,000 bushels."

MODERN MILLER

Rains have fallen in the dry areas of the soft winter wheat belt and have materially benefited the condition of the crop. Because of the deterioration of the crop on account of the dry and hot weather, many localities do not promise much more than a normal yield. In Southeastern Kansas, parts of Oklahoma and Southwestern Missouri the prolonged drouth has caused the plant to show thin growth and a sickly color, but in the greater part of the hard winter wheat region the promise is for an average outturn. In parts of Indiana and Illinois the crop is heading short. Cutting of wheat will begin in Texas the first week in June, with indications that the quality will be fine. In the other Southern States the harvest will begin about June 15.

PELLAGRA TRACED TO INFECTION OF DRINKING WATER

Italian Specialsits Find Carborated Chalk Will Prevent Disease Which Rages in Warm Climate.

ROME, May 31.—Pellagra, the mysterious skin disease prevalent in semi-tropical climates which has baffled medical authorities for nearly 200 years, is caused by infected water, according to Profs. Scala and Alessandrini of the Institute of Hygiene in Rome.

The scourge has long been ascribed to the consumption of bad corn, but according to the professors' announcement they have found that in the districts of Italy where the disease is most prevalent, the water is infected with colloidal solution. The professors declare that the theory of maize ptomaine is altogether groundless. They are endeavoring to induce the authorities to proceed with a thorough examination of all the waters of the infected districts and rid Italy of a plague which claims 50,000 cases annually.

The professors have found that the infected water may be easily made safe for drinking purposes by putting into it a quantity of carbonated chalk.

In the United States a commission whose work has been made possible by a gift of $15,000 from Col. Robert M. Thompson of New York and John H. McFadden of Philadelphia has been at work for more than a year in a study of cases of pellagra in the Southern states. The commission's final report is yet to be issued.

EIGHT NATIONS IN FAVOR OF WILSON PLAN FOR PEACE

Notify Secretary Bryan and They Are Willing to Co-Operate to Avoid Warfare.

NONE ASKED DECLINED

Investigation of Disputes Is Feature of the Proposal Outlined by President.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Eight nations, according to an announcement of Secretary of State Bryan, have passed favorably on his plans for universal peace and are arranging to co-operate with the United States in making the scheme effective.

In the order in which they have accepted, the nations are: Italy, Great Britain, France, Brazil, Sweden, Norway, Peru and Russia.

Bryan said no nation to whom his peace plan was submitted had replied adversely, although some had asked more time for consideration.

To each of the Governments expressing a willingness to enter into the peace agreement a tentative statement has been submitted embodying details suggested by the President.

The Secretary, pointing out that this statement was submitted for consideration with no intention of insistence upon any particular detail, declined to make public its contents.

Done at Wilson's Order.

"It will be remembered," said Bryan, "that about a month ago a plan was, by the President's direction, submitted to all the Governments having representatives here, the plan being in substance as follows:

"1. That the United States is prepared to enter into an agreement with each country severally providing for the investigation of all disputes of every character and nature by an international commission, the contracting parties agreeing not to declare war or begin hostilities until such investigation is made and report submitted.

"2. The investigation to be conducted as a matter of course upon the initiative of the commission without the formality of a request from either party.

"3. The report to be submitted within a given time, the time to be agreed upon.

"4. The parties to reserve the right to act independently on the subject matter in dispute, after the report is submitted. The composition of the commission was a matter of detail to be agreed upon by the contracting parties; the time in which the report should be submitted was a matter of detail to be agreed upon by the contracting parties."

Arbitration Treaties Renewed.

Bryan observed that within the last two months three arbitration treaties have been renewed for a period of five years.

The treaties renewed are with France, Italy and Spain, and President Wilson has expressed his willingness to renew similar conventions with Great Britain, Japan, Norway, Sweden and Portugal.

PAIR OF SPECTACLES STARTS DIVORCE SUIT

Wife Declares Husband Monopolizes Family Glasses, but He Asks Alimony.

CLEVELAND, O., May 31.—Mrs. Louis Magrander blames a pair of spectacles for the troubles between herself and her husband, Louis, to whom she has been married 33 years.

"I need them part of the time, but he wants to wear them all the time, except when he goes to bed," she says. "And he stays up late just to keep hold of them. They fit us both perfectly."

The husband's version, as related in a divorce proceeding, charges that Mrs. Magrander hit him with a club, the police interfering to save a knockout, and refused to cook his meals. He wants the court to compel his wife to pay him alimony.

WILSON PLAYS FIRST GOLF AS PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Wilson played his first game of golf today in several months. He went to the Washington suburban country club, across the Potomac, in Virginia, with Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., his physician. With the exception of long walks, it was the first real outdoor exercise that the President has taken since he came to the White House. He had not played golf since last September at Seagirt, N. J.

The President planned to take a motor ride in the afternoon or drop in at the ball game. He had no engagements for the day.

Two Men, One a Rescuer, Drown.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., May 31.—Edward Hulett of Beardstown was drowned in the Illinois River at Valley City when trying to save a drowning man. Hulett, an expert swimmer, was in a yacht when the other occupant fell into the river. Hulett jumped overboard to save his companion, but his heavy clothing carried him down.

The Jarr Family

By Roy L. McCardell

Gus asks Slavinsky to insult him and is obliged.

"HOW'S the motor boat, Gus?" asked Mr. Jarr as he entered the popular cafe on the corner. "Is she a fast boat?"

"You bet she is!" said Gus. "She is fast at the dock and she is fast in the mud. By gollies! She's the fastest boat on the river!"

"You're quite a joker, Gus!"

"Yes, I am," said Gus, seriously. "I guess I think up more funny things than anybody else around here. And I got more jokes about my motion boat I thought up, too. Why is it my motion boat is like the crackers and cheese and radishes over there? Because all the bums around here expect to ride in it for nothing."

"I'll bite," said Mr. Jarr. "Why is your motor boat that your customers expect to ride in for nothing like yonder crackers and cheese and radishes they expect to eat for nothing?"

"Because," said Gus, pausing impressively, "because they will both be free lunches. I guess that's bad, what?"

"The 'a' being silent, as in 'wheeze,'" said Mr. Jarr. "Yes, it's very bad. Where's Elmer?"

"Should it be that I am the boss and have all the hard work with the motion-boat?" asked Gus. "Should I worry and break my back down at the river, while my bartender he has it easy here playing on the cash register and polishing the brass and glass? No! So I have hired myself as bartender in Elmer's place and made Elmer a present of the motion-boat and he is down by the river breaking his back trying to get it started. Now, go on out of here and go quick before you come in!"

This last command was addressed, not to Mr. Jarr, but to Mr. Michael Angelo Dinkston, who was making a spectacular entry at this moment pushing a two-wheeled hand truck, one of those tilted barrows, with small iron wheels in front, that longshoremen and freight handlers are addicted to.

Fastened to the hand truck was a small frayed mattress that evidently was once part of the equipment of a child's crib.

"This," replied Mr. Dinkston, "this, Gus, is a mere bagatelle."

"So!" said Gus. "I often heard of 'em, but never seen one before."

"It is an indispensable adjunct for every well-conducted cafe."

"What good is it to me?" asked Gus. "My barrel goods is put down in the cellar from outside. I don't need it."

"Do you mean to tell me that you should not have this apparatus in plain sight, so when asked, 'What is that?' you could answer, 'Oh, a mere bagatelle?' inquired Mr. Dinkston in some amazement.

"By gollies! You're right!" cried Gus. "I always wanted one of them things. I'll bet liquor stores what hasn't the business I do here has them Mere Bagatelles."

"Why, certainly!" said Mr. Dinkston. "And this is useful as well as ornamental. See, I observe the headgear of Mr. Slavinsky over the screen half doors. Mr. Slavinsky will enter here and annoy you. All your customers annoy you"—

"That's right. You may be a low-life, but you are a smart feller," said Gus.

"Well, then," Mr. Dinkston went on, "I lurk in the apartment adjacent, with the ejectory apparatus, for such it is. And every establishment infested with bores should have one. Mr. Slavinsky will annoy you. You will raise your voice and exclaim:

'Hither, helpful bagatelle,
Hold him in your mystic spell!'

Then watch it work."

"I can hardly wait," said Gus. "Insult me, Slavinsky!" he added.

For that patron was now inside and looking on wonderingly.

"I can't think of anything so quick," remarked Mr. Slavinsky. "But never mind, you know what I always think of you."

"Work the machinery!" cried Gus. "I can't remember them words!"

Whereat Mr. Dinkston made a rush with the truck at Mr. Slavinsky and that gentleman was borne out into the street and dumped into the gutter.

"Jus what I wanted!" cried Gus.

BATTING IN THE TECHNICALITY LEAGUE

MRS. WILLIAM H. UTTER says she was in the Bertillon bureau watching the expert measure a criminal, and noticed that he employed the metric system to record the measurements. "I asked him if he always used millimeters and centimeters instead of feet and inches, and he told me that he did; and I inquired: 'Do you also use the centigrade system of weight?'

"'No, madam, we never make our measurements as fine as that,' he said politely.

"Then I remembered," said Mrs. Utter, "that centigrade is a scale for measuring heat."

Knew His Ground.

"YOU say this man is no chicken stealer?" inquired the Judge.

"Yassuh," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "Da's whut I said."

"What do you know about the facts in this case?"

"I isn't supposed to know nuffin' 'bout de facks in de case. I is an expert witness foh de defense."—Washington Star.

"Yes," groaned the pessimist, "and when that happens the ruling classes will make Monday pay day."—Chicago Tribune.

His Quick Return.

THE Harduppe brothers, Sam and Bill, were frankly "up against it." They owed the tailor, the landlady, the tobacconist and sundry others, and they spent most of their time dodging their creditors' emissaries.

Came a ring at the front doorbell and Sam answered.

"I must see your brother," an agitated man insisted. "I must see him today without fail."

"Why, I'm sorry, but Bill left town yesterday."

The man's face fell. "That's too bad," he said, "for I wanted to pay him $50 that I owe him, and I'm going West tonight."

"Oh," said Sam, his face lighting, "that's easy; Bill came back this morning."

Ouch!
